

Hello Nintendo of America,

With Operation StarFall, our goal is to find all those wishing to see a return of Geno, Mallow and other characters from Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars make a return to Nintendo. Whether that comes in the form of a remaster, a release on the SNES Library for Nintendo Switch Online or seeing Geno become a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros Ultimate.

Please take a look at all the messages, letters and fan creations containing these characters. Even though they have not made an official appearance in 24 years, they are still extremely beloved by many fans. It would mean the whole world if you could work with Square-Enix and bring them back.

We invite you to check out our website to see how much passion people have to see Geno and Mallow return to the Mushroom Kingdom with Mario and friends.

Thank you again for everything that you do and for hearing us out.

Respectfully,

The Operation StarFall Team

Twitter: @opestarfall

Website: www.operationstarfall.com

Hi,

My name is Manny! I'm always lurking in the SmashBoards Geno thread. My username there is yakko789. I saw that Operation Starfall started a campaign to send any messages/art of support in favor of Geno. I'm providing an image of some fanart I drew of Geno about a year ago and I usually sell prints of it at anime conventions, and it's generally well-received. A lot of people still recognize Geno and want him to be in Smash. I've been supporting "Geno for Smash" since 2006 when Brawl was in the works. I absolutely love Mario RPG and having Geno in Super Smash Bros Ultimate would be more than out-of-this-world awesomeness!

~Manny (yakko789)

Hello,

Geno is very long fan demand character over 24 years. #GenoForSmash

~Eli Shelton

Hello,

I'm writing to express my support for Geno's inclusion into Super Smash Brothers Ultimate. For years, Geno has been my most wanted character in this series. Super Mario RPG fills me with the same wonder and hope that many say something Disney brings them. It is charming and whimsically, and truly just a special part of Nintendo and Square history. Geno is a the embodiment of that enchantment in a character.

That era of my life meant so much growing up and I would love in this way to recapture it. Thank you for your time.

~Eric H.

Nintendo/Sakurai,

Geno was one of the first video game characters I fell in love with. Back when SNES was the latest console and I was subscribed to Nintendo Power I cut out pages of the magazine that had Geno on them to pin them up in my room just because he was so cool! I bought and played Mario RPG specifically for Geno, and I loved the mystery behind his character.

Up to Smash Ultimate, there were two characters from Nintendo history that I thought had been wrongfully forgotten in Smash. They were Banjo from N64 and Geno from SNES. Now that we've got Banjo I believe that the addition of Geno would complete the Smash Bros. roster in a way that represents the very best of every Era of Nintendo's history.

I'm so impressed with Smash Ultimate, and if we got Geno in the game I truly would have nothing more to ask for in my personal ultimate Smash roster.

Thank you for this amazing game and all the work you've put in!

~Jonathan Sanders

To Mr. Sakurai and the Smash Ultimate crew,

I just want to say that you've made a wonderful game. The amount of effort you've put in towards making smash ultimate the pinnacle of crossover games truly shows, and it warms my heart just how much you go out of your way to please your fans. And on the subject of which, I wanted to take a moment to humbly request the presence of Geno in this most magnificent game. It would mean a lot to me and a great many others. That said, regardless of who you choose, this game is truly remarkable, and one that I and many others will happily enjoy for years to come. From the bottom of my heart, thank you for all your hard work and all that you do!

~B

Hello, Nintendo, Sakurai, Square, whoever gets to see this message,

This is a bit of a read, but I do hope you will at least skim over it. I would greatly appreciate it. I also have some art I've made over time that I'm sending along with this, so checking that out would be sweet, too!

I have a wish that I hope to be fulfilled, the last Smash wish I could ever have, if not a wish in general. My general wish is to see Geno from Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars return, the star-sent savior himself. The way I'm hoping to see it happen is through his inclusion into Super Smash Bros. Ultimate as a DLC character.

Let me say just how much Geno means to me as a character. I am a 27-year-old content creator from Florida, and while I did not grow up with Geno like many others have, I saw so much potential in him when I played Super Mario RPG. The character he exuded was instantly captivating: cool, visually cute, expressive, intelligent, powerful, and even a little dorky. (Him spouting nineties slang like, "Chill out!" and "Yo, Smithy!" kills me. It's hilarious.)

I always find an interest in characters like him, characters that have so much potential to have depth and intrigue beyond what you see at face value. I've come up with so many ideas for him in terms of his lore, his personality (beyond just what we see in the game), how he would work with the modern Mario cast, and so on. Relations to Rosalina, how his friendships in SMRPG changed him, what it means to grant everyone's wishes while also tending to himself as a person... I've delved into all of these things. I've put hours, days, weeks, months of work into my interpretation of Geno like he is my very own. My love and passion for the character is unyielding.

What I would love to see is to have this wish come true, the wish for Geno to make his glorious return, for Geno to see his old friends again. (Mallow would also be SUPER great! He can be in a taunt like Morgana (with Joker) and Slime (with Hero)!) I was so happy to see the Mii costume in Smash 4, but I hope that soon, we can see the real Geno come home. Nothing would make me happier than to see him being given some love.

I equate Geno to an old doll from Nintendo's and Square's 'childhood', if you will. He was a fond memory in the past, but he's since been cooped up in the toy box, unused and left under layers of dust, waiting to be loved once again. I would absolutely adore seeing this old doll, this faint little star, being restored in a whole new light. A lot of other people also feel the same way, both here and in Japan. Heck, even Europe has a love for Geno, even though they didn't get SMRPG until the Wii Virtual Console! How crazy-awesome is that?!

The personal love and sentimentality I have for Geno is huge. It would do nothing but good for this old and jaded soul to see this dream come to life. I've seen so many characters come into Smash Brothers, so many that I hoped to see, and I am so eternally grateful for them. Geno is the only one remaining, the only character I want to see revived, whether it's in Smash or in a new game in general. Seeing him in Super Smash Brothers Ultimate would be enough to make me cry with utter joy and appreciation. It would mean so much to me in this hustling, bustling world full of hard work and exhaustion to see my boy come back. It would mean the world, the stars, the UNIVERSE.

I love you all at Nintendo and Square, and Sakurai-san, I love you, as well! I understand if this cannot happen, but if you can make it happen, words cannot describe how thankful I would be. I hope you all have a great one, and thank you for your contributions to Super Smash Bros. and the Mario series as a whole!

~Nikki

(2/2)

Artwork By: Nikki (@pepperonisecret)

Dear Nintendo, Sora LTD, Square-Enix, and everyone else in-between,

I couldn't thank you enough for bringing together this amazing roster of characters in Smash Ultimate and all the other cross-overs you've done throughout the recent years they have all been spectacular but please if there's one request I may be able to give it would be for Geno and the rest of the SMRPG cast to return one day.

Geno means a lot to a lot of people and even if he hasn't appeared in a major role since forever he's still a lot of people's favorite Mario, Nintendo and even video game character including mine he's just that special. I've met countless people who want Geno back just like I do and there's countless artists who've made art of him and Mallow, countless writers who've wrote stories for them, programmers who've made fan-games and mods for them and everything else in-between.

Geno and Super Mario RPG is so special to so many people and while he may be an older character people still remember him and the game fondly. I know I and plenty of other people do, I fondly remember searching through YouTube and stumbling upon a video and falling in love with Geno and the rest of the cast of Super Mario RPG. Later, I decided to play the game and now Geno is my personal hero! He's my favorite Mario, Nintendo and Video game character in general!

Super Mario RPG is such a unique and fun game with loads and loads of original characters that could be fleshed out and brought into the spotlight if chosen to do so. Geno of course, Mallow, Booster, Croco, Boshi, Exor, Axem Rangers, Smithy and plenty other characters had so much potential to be a larger part of the Mario universe yet unfortunately it didn't pan out that way.

So please do me and millions of other people a favor and grant our 24-25 year old wish to bring Geno and the crew back into the spotlight! I and many others would love it if you brought him back into the Nintendo landscape using Smash Ultimate and now that more DLC fighters are being worked on now is the perfect time to do it! Geno for Smash!

Thanks for reading my message, Take care and keep up the amazing work everyone.

~Shoto Star

To whom it may concern,

Super Mario RPG was the present I had most wished for my 6th birthday back in 1996. I can't quite remember what made me so excited about the game. It had Mario in it and I loved Nintendo but I had never played an RPG game before that. I am very happy that I made that wish though. The game became one of my favorites of all time due to the hilarious writing, cool original characters, and amazing music. One of the biggest pieces of that was the character of Geno. He was so unique for a Mario character. He came from the stars and fought with finger guns and laser beams. As someone who even back then loved the character of Mega Man, Geno really clicked with me. As I grew up I always wondered why the characters from SMRPG like Geno and Mallow that I had loved as a child never appeared in another Mario game. It was only as a teenager that I learned of the legal barriers that kept this from happening.

Despite that I always wished that Geno (or any of the SMRPG characters would make another appearance in the future. As a fan of the Super Smash Bros. series I was amazed when it was announced that characters like Snake and Sonic the Hedgehog would be playable in the series. It was also around that time that I began bringing up Geno from SMRPG as a possible newcomer. It was not only due to my nostalgia for the character and his game but the fact that he had such an amazing potential as a fighter. With his arsenal of fantastic starlight weapons and a timed hit mechanic I am sure he would stand out as an amazing addition to the series. Super Smash Bros. Ultimate is a celebration of video game history, and with the addition of such great and requested characters like King K. Rool, Ridley, and Banjo-Kazooie it really does feel like a game where wishes come true. I believe that now more than ever would be an appropriate time to add a character that so amazingly represents the historical relationship between Nintendo and Square as a playable fighter. Thank you for your amazing work and the entertainment you have given me as a fan.

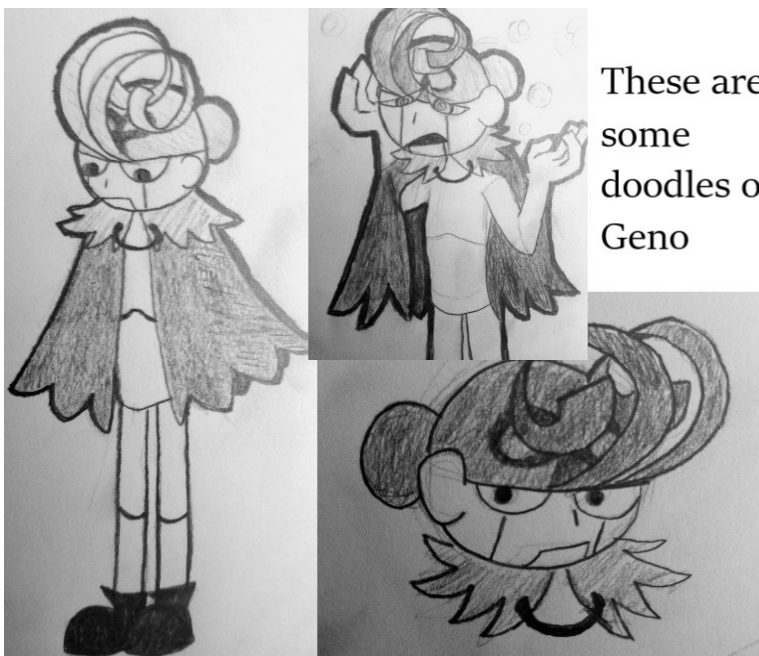

~Michael X. Perez

Hello,

It would mean a whole lot to not just me but to a whole lot of other people to have Geno recognized as a character by putting him in Super Smash Brothers. I have always loved this character since I was young and was handed down a SNES with Super Mario RPG and other video games. I would draw him on almost anything I could from sketchbooks and personal art projects to school papers and calendars. Once I had played Smash Bros. Brawl I thought of characters I would want in, and of course the character I first thought of was Geno. Not only would I want him in because I love and cherish Mario RPG and Geno, but because he would be a perfect pick. Geno represents the beginning of the Mario RPGs and has a good amount of potential for a move set that could be interesting. Below I have also attached some drawing I have made of Geno, its not my best but it shows how much I love him.

~Julian R.

These are some doodles of Geno

This is the remains of a lost art piece I did of him trying out a new art style

I understand that Geno may not be the biggest or most widely recognized character out there, but to the people who know him and Super Mario RPG, he means a great deal. My letter is part of a wider campaign by fellow Geno fans to see Geno return in meaningful ways, starting primarily with our formal request and campaign for Geno as a DLC fighter in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate. The game has already made so many dreams for so many people come true, and we Geno fans would like to see our favorite character included in that ever-expanding legacy and roster devoted to fans of video games everywhere. With so many characters in the game that we never expected, it truly seems like anything can happen in the world of Smash, and we had that Geno is one of those possibilities. Even if he can only show up this one time as a DLC fighter for Super Smash Bros. Ultimate, we're more than happy to take what we can get in that regard. He could bring all sorts of exciting music from Super Mario RPG and potentially come with a unique stage that emphasized elements of Super Mario RPG like the chandeliers in Bowser's Castle from the beginning of the game or the Mushroom Forest where Geno makes his first appearance.

With the fans supporting Geno for over a decade now and Mr. Sakurai's voice of approval for the character alongside the unparalleled development of Super Smash Bros. Ultimate, the time feels right to me and many others. We want to see this beloved character in the spotlight once again and we would love to see him in Smash. We understand that Geno is owned by Square Enix and requires a licensing deal to return and be included in Smash, and we know that every third-party character of all shapes and sizes requires a great deal of effort to become reality in Super Smash Bros. We humbly ask that Nintendo and Mr. Sakurai consider including Geno in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate the next time such a possibility arises. Geno would serve as a true testament to the power of fan support of characters given his much smaller status in the video game world, and a testament to Nintendo's commitment in satisfying fan bases of all sizes.

Regardless of Geno's inclusion in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate or a future Super Smash Bros. title, I would once again like to thank Nintendo, Mr. Sakurai, the Sora Ltd. development team, and all the companies who have allowed their characters to join Super Smash Bros. Ultimate. It has brought me many hours of joy and will continue to bring me hours of joy as I continue playing and trying out the new DLC fighters. I cannot voice my appreciation enough for providing such a complete and content-filled package in an era when many games have significantly smaller amounts of content. Super Smash Bros. Ultimate reminds me every day of how happy I am to be a Nintendo fan, and I hope that the future holds many great things for all parties involved. Your devotion to making world class products is second to none and has provided me with some of my best memories in life, and Super Smash Bros. has been at the center of many of those great memories.

I hope my letter and this Operation Starfall movement help open the door for Geno's return in the future. But once again, thank you for Super Smash Bros. and everything Nintendo related.

Sincerely,
Eric Matherly

Greetings,

So this is obviously a bit late so I am fine if this is not able to make it in, but I made a little Geno drawing that is based off of the Geno Smashified render.

Geno is definitely my Number 1 most wanted character to get in Smash and I think that he has a pretty good shot at the moment. With Nintendo and Squares current relationship with collaborations, I believe that character rights are not stopping Geno from getting in Smash, as I believe it's all up to Sakurai and his team at this point. Hopefully Geno will make his return one day.

~Henry Oja

I wish for Geno to be a playable character in Super Smash Bros! He has been the only character I have wanted to play. I have been waiting since 2005! It would mean so much to me to see him join the roster. A proper Super Mario RPG sequel would be awesome too so long as Geno and Mallow are in it.

-SSGuy
-USA

I wish that SMRPG as a whole has a grand revival.

-Slender
-USA

Super Mario RPG should totally get a remaster or at the very least, Geno should be in Smash, or in another Mario game (with Mallow)

-Soopah
-USA

A remake of Super Mario RPG would be great, I want to see all these wonder original characters renewed for a second chance in the spotlight.

-Ring-a-Sheep
-USA

I wish that such an amazing game that started a series of Mario RPG games can finally be well known, and for Geno in smash.

-Gian
-USA

I would love to see this classic RPG get a remake, or even a full on sequel!

-Ze Diglett
-USA

I wish for this little blue boy and the other characters of SMRPG to be brought back from the depths of obscurity and into the spotlight.

-Dynamic Worlock

-USA

I wish that Nintendo, Square, and maybe even AlphaDream would team up for a faithful remake of Super Mario RPG for the Switch. Also Geno in Smash.

-Richie

-USA

I wish for Geno to become a playable character in Smash Bros Ultimate or any future game, Geno has been requested by so many and for so long too!

-ShotoStar

-USA

I wish for both Geno and Mallow to appear in future Mario titles. I also want Geno to be playable in Smash Bros!

-Prince of Frogs

-USA

I wish to see Geno again- eventually.

-Carla

-USA

I desperately want to see Geno appear again in some shape or form. This game is one of my all time favorite games, too! Bring Geno and Mallow back!

-Nerf

-USA

I would love to see Geno become a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros Ultimate. It would make my friend very happy!

-DanVas

-USA

Put Super Mario RPG on the switch. Make a Super Mario RPG remake. Or Super Mario RPG remastered. I have never played it but I am curious enough to try. Geno getting into Super Smash Bros would be a good way to get the game more attention. And it would help more people learn about it and play it.

-Froggy

-USA

Having Geno as a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros would be such a blessing! I just love the character and everything that has to do with Super Mario RPG. I wish to see more of that return to Mario because everything from that game is truly unique and deserves better.

-TMDawg

-Europe

I wish we got a sequel and hopefully see them interact with other Mario characters, like Geno with Rosalina or Booster with Wario, and also if not too much, to get Geno as a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros Ultimate.

-Lucas

-South America

I really want to see Geno or The Smithy Gang make some sort of comeback...I miss them.

-noct!

-Europe

That Geno and Mallow were to be owned by Nintendo so that they can be in more Super Mario games and that Geno can be in Super Smash Bros Ultimate as a playable character.

-Zachary Whitesides

-USA

Geno for Smash!!!

- Anwar
- South America

To show that Super Mario RPG is loved all around the world and should get a Remake or at least, a re-mastered edition on Nintendo Switch.

- Asian StarBoy
- Europe

Geno for Smash Ultimate DLC as Playable Fighter, Super Mario RPG Sequel or Remake for Nintendo Switch!!!

- Rafael Echeverria
- USA

For a SMRPG remake to happen.

- Myself
- Europe

Geno as a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros Ultimate!

- We love Geno and Mallow make it happen
- Nintendo
- USA

I want Shy Guy and Geno to be playable in Smash!

- Felix
- USA

For Geno to be a playable fighter in Smash Bros Ultimate!

-Andrew Hurt
-USA

To see Geno as a playable character in Super Smash Bros. ...Or to see a remake/remaster of Super Mario RPG. Or a sequel to Super Mario RPG. ...Whichever comes first.

-Matt B.
-USA

Geno to be a full fledged playable character in Smash Bros Ultimate as DLC and perhaps get a remake or sequel to Super Mario RPG.

-Zach Bowen
-USA

My one wish is for my favorite character to make a glories return in Smash Ultimate so I can represent him at a top level in competitive play. Please put Geno in Smash Ultimate!

-Wishes (@Wish7s)
-USA

To bring SMRPG's cast back to the Mario mainstream

-Dmitry
-Russia

Super Mario RPG 2 or Geno in Smash Bros

-Matthew Harris
-USA

I wish Geno was Smash Ultimate DLC

-George

-USA

To play as Geno in Smash, with timed hit system.

-Ratix

-USA

Super Mario RPG to get re-released for Switch and Geno in Smash

-Chris

-Canada

I wish Nintendo and Square would make a sequel

-Allan

For SMRPG to have more acknowledgement from Nintendo and Square Enix and for Geno to finally make it as a playable character in Smash Bros!

-MajorAlbatross

-Europe

I wish for Geno to make a playable appearance in Super Smash Brothers!

-Nemo

-USA

Just let Geno come back

-Reece

-USA

I wish to see Geno, Mallow, and other Mario characters in a new SMRPG game, and for Geno and Mallow to be included in more Mario games like the spinoffs alongside other characters unique to the Mario RPGs :) (also put Geno in Smash!)

-TheCJBrine

-USA

For Geno to return as a fighter in Super Smash Bros.

-valkiriforce

-USA

For greater recognition of Super Mario RPG in general, whether that be through a sequel, remake, Geno playable in Smash, or through Geno & Mallow coming back to the Mario series in some fashion.

-UberMadman

-USA

In a perfect world, I'd like to see all the Mario RPG characters and properties owned by Square-Enix back in the hands of Nintendo so they can get more exposure in future releases like spin-offs, but really, just seeing the characters like Geno and Mallow in a new Mario RPG game is good enough for me. Oh, and Geno for Smash Bros.

-Colby Paul

-USA

I would love to see a Super Mario RPG Remake or a new game featuring Geno and Mallow!

I wish for Geno to be a playable character in Super Smash Bros!

-Chris

-USA

Dear Nintendo Representative,

As early as Super Smash Bros. Brawl, Geno from Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars (SNES) has been a highly requested character for the Smash Bros. series, even having Masahiro Sakurai comment on how he would love to see Geno become a playable character.

I personally grew up playing and obsessing over Mario, and I still do to this very day. The games in the Mario series that have always interested me the most are the RPGs, and without Super Mario RPG, other series like Paper Mario and Mario and Luigi would likely not exist. Geno represents a time when Square Enix and Nintendo could cooperate to bring everyone a joyful and humorous experience with impressive visuals and music tracks that I have listened to for hours. Geno represents the story aspect of Mario, a side that we can only hope to see every so often. Geno's inclusion would very likely lead to the same situation as Pauline: after being long forgotten and only appearing every so often as cameos, they bring the character back into the spotlight in their side series like Mario Tennis and Mario Kart. This would introduce this beloved character into a new generation of people who have yet to hear of this possessed wooden doll. This character is not only nostalgic to me, Geno would also serve as recognition for all that Super Mario RPG did for future RPGs and Mario games alike.

Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars is one of my favorite games, and Geno is my favorite out of the entire cast. All I can do is wish upon the stars for that Toad's doll to become a character in one of the most impressive rosters in video-games. Please, allow Geno into the Super Smash Bros. Ultimate roster. Thank you very much for reading my story!

~Sean Sattur

Hello,

My name is Matt. I'm writing this letter because I would like to see Geno from Super Mario RPG as a playable character. Like many other fans, Super Mario RPG is a game that I greatly like, though in my case, it was not part of my childhood like most. I recall playing the game very briefly over at a neighbor's house, and I don't remember getting very far in, but I distinctly remember it for the first time I saw Mario in 3D before Super Mario 64. The first Mario RPG experience I definitely can remember playing all the way through was Paper Mario, and enjoyed it greatly. Played it, Thousand Year Door, and Super Paper Mario and enjoyed all 3 rather well.

It wasn't until about late 2007/early 2008 that I finally got my own copy for my SNES. I distinctly remember thanks to watching various Flash animations like one called Smash Kingdom that got me interested in Geno as a character, and I found him rather cool. I beat the game for the first time ever the night before Super Smash Bros. Brawl released, and I was a little disappointed to not see Geno return.

I wrote a letter over a decade ago expressing my hopes that Geno would come back someday, and for many years, that was that. It wasn't until the Mii Fighter costume in Smash 4 that reinvigorated my hopes for Geno and I know many others also felt the same way. I hope that with this recently announced second round of DLC beyond the Fighter Pass that the wishes of many can finally be granted and bring a beloved character from one of Mario's best spinoffs back for people to enjoy once again.

Thanks for reading this message.

~Matt

Hello,

My name is Alex, and I've been a Geno fan since I was way back in grade school. Even though I was born in 1999, when I watched playthroughs of SMRPG and when I finally got to play SMRPG on Wii Virtual Console, Geno has been my favorite Nintendo character right next to King Dedede (He's literally perfect, so that's some high status). I've been hoping for Geno to be playable in smash for a long time; even voting for him in the Smash Ballot. Even if Geno isn't a possibility, thank you for your time and consideration!!!

こんにちは。私はカラスコです。好きな任天堂のキャラクターはジェノです。ジェノを追加してください。どうもありがとうございます。

~Alex

Greetings Nintendo, Square, and Sakurai,

I hope this message gets to you all to talk about Geno. He represents the strong relationship between Nintendo and Square back in the 90s. Super Mario RPG showed Mario can be made into a RPG game, behind the minds of the talented then Squaresoft. The game had character, simple but effective mechanics and memorable moments.

Geno would make a perfect addition to the Smash series since not only does he fulfill a “retro” character, but he is a celebration of Nintendo and Squaresoft (Now Square-Enix). I know I am not alone in thinking this. Both Sakurai and Nintendo have mentioned Geno several times on how he is such a popular pick. Also, it was a glorious day when Geno was shown as a Mii costume. But it was not a simple “generic” showcase for him. No, it was put on a pedestal. It has its own splash screen with “Beware the Forest Mushroom’s playing. It was so exciting!

I have been saddened a bit that Geno hasn’t come to Ultimate ... hopefully YET! I see there is more DLC fighters coming to Smash after the 9/4/2019 Nintendo Direct. The celebration of Geno can still happen with your help! There is so much love in this game and it can always use some more!

I thank you for reading this message and hope my wish will come true!

~Jarret Payne

Hello,

I would love for Geno to join Super Smash Bros. Ultimate; that would be a dream come true. I have fond memories of playing Super Mario RPG at the time it came out - close to the same time Super Mario 64 was released in 1996. My brother had rented an N64 console and Super Mario 64 from Blockbuster at this time, and I rented Super Mario RPG, so we would often unplug one console and hook-up the other to play our games. I found myself attached to the story elements of Super Mario RPG and found this mysterious character named Geno fascinating when I was watching the intro. I would later find out he had such cool abilities like turning his arm into a laser cannon and using other special abilities like the rocket punch. I would later buy this game and play it in its entirety and I loved every minute of it. It was a bittersweet moment to say goodbye to Geno when his work was done, and I found it to be a really moving experience for a Mario title. I loved so much about the world of Mario RPG that I wished I could live in such a world as a kid.

10 years later I was thrilled to hear that Geno had so much support going for him in Super Smash Bros. Brawl from Japan, which later poured into western support for the character which was unexpected. I've been a supporter of Geno to appear in the Super Smash Bros. series since that time in 2006, and I'm still hoping that while Geno's adventure is over now, that we could get one last hurrah for the character himself as a celebration of the Mario RPG-related franchises. There is much that remains unexplained about the character, and honestly I prefer it that way - it leaves room for the imagination of a hero that once helped to save the world in times that have come and gone, much like many other game titles from that era.

It's been a long time since we've seen our old friend Geno, and it's rather fitting that we should ask for a character all about granting wishes - it would be a dream come true to see an old friend and a hero from my childhood make his last return on a major Nintendo console like the Switch. I hope that Nintendo and Sakurai will someday grant us our last wish and put Geno into Super Smash Bros. Ultimate.

~Michael Krizik

Dear Nintendo,

Geno would be a very wonderful addition to Super Smash Bros.' playable roster! He's a cool dude with awesome powers, and would make many, many people very happy.

Thank you all so much for this great videogame series! It'd be great to see Geno finally grant fans' wishes and make his grand return!

~TheCJBrine

Dear Nintendo/Square Enix,

I'm a longtime fan of your game, Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars. It was the first RPG I ever played, and to this day it still is a joy to play through. There's plenty of great characters in the game, but Geno in particular was a character who really stood out to me. There hasn't really been a Mario Spin-Off character with the same kind of impact since. Outside of literally one cameo, he hasn't been seen since.

I'm also a huge fan of Super Smash Bros. Ultimate, and just how many awesome new characters there are. Ridley, Simon Belmont, King K. Rool, and most recently Banjo-Kazooie, (just to name a few) are some of the most highly requested additions to an already awesome game and formula and I'm sure you've seen the pure joy that results from their unveilings. But, there's one particular highly requested character that would break the internet and cause more eardrum-destroying joy. That character is Geno.

I know technically Square Enix already has Cloud and the Dragon Quest Hero in Smash (Both of whom are awesome characters, by the way), but if there's one thing that Smash is known for recently, it's breaking the "rules" that people make up for characters that get in. And so, I, along with sever others of Operation Starfall, are kindly asking Nintendo, Square Enix, and Sora, Ltd. to (fittingly enough) grant our wish, and to have Geno appear alongside his old friends Mario, Peach, and Bowser, alongside all of the other all-stars of Smash Ultimate. Let's make it happen.

A fan of you guys always,

~Ethan K.

To see the cast return in general, be it as characters in spin-offs, a new RPG or Geno in Smash Bros.

-EarlTamm
-USA

I wish for Geno to be playable fighter in Smash.

-Adam N.
-Europe

I want a sequel for Super Mario RPG on the Nintendo Switch

-Preston Petersen
-USA

For another game like Super Mario RPG in the same world be it remake or sequel and for Geno to be a playable fighter in a Smash Bros. game.

-Adrianette
-Canada

For Viz to fully translate Bobobobo and a SMRPG Remaster!

-Catsforelife
-USA

I want to see Geno, Mallow and other characters return to more Mario games and franchises including Mario Kart, Mario Tennis as well as many new adventures that Mario will be going on!

-Winged hero
-USA

I want a SMRPG Remastered for Switch!

-Dax
-South America

Geno for Smash!

-SeagullMoe
-Europe

To have Geno as a recurring main Nintendo character and to be a playable character in Smash Brothers Ultimate.

-Hexavius
-USA

Peace.

-Aidan
-Canada

My wish is for Super Mario RPG to get more recognition from both Nintendo and Square Enix in pretty much any form. The game means so much to so many people and it's a shame that it remains a relic of the past to this day.

-Rapwned
-USA

I'd love for a SMRPG sequel and/or port to switch. I've also hoped for Geno to join smash for year. When I was little, SMRPG was one of my first games, and I fell in love with the characters. I used to draw them and the SMRPG map. I would draw all the smash characters along with the SMRPG characters as if they were in smash. It was a big part of my childhood and I'd still buy anything involving SMRPG.

-Ryan Iacovelli -USA

I would like to see all of the forgotten Mario characters to return in a game like Mario Party and Mario Kart

-Purkskrr

-USA

That we could see Geno and Mallow in future Mario games. Geno for smash would be a cool bonus too!

-Scaidur

-Europe

I wish Geno would come back for real.

-Axel

-USA

To introduce the world of Super Mario RPG to a whole new audience through a whole new game, and having Geno as a fighter in Super Smash Bros.

-SonicCrafterKing

-USA

I wish for Geno to have another chance to make his presence, along with the wishes on Star Road, to have another chance to be introduced to the new generation of gamers.

-Adam Meza

-USA

Geno to return to Nintendo as a fighter for Smash Bros!

-Trey

-USA

To see Geno make an appearance in Smash or return in the Mario series.

-Axelocke
-Canada

For either Geno to be in smash or Geno and Mallow to be in Mario game again.

-Super
-USA

That Geno and SMRPG in general was thrown into the spotlight once again.

-Glance
-USA

I wish to either see Geno in smash as a playable fighter and/or a return of the Super Mario RPG series with returning characters like Geno, Mallow and Smithy.

-Marc Ortiz
-USA

I wish I could find my Geno doll again! Please help me bring him back!

-Gaz
-Rose Town

I wish I may I wish I might, that Geno and Mallow and friends get into the limelight! ..And be there in further marketing with Mario and everyone ^^

-Ingenious!
-USA

That Fat Yoshi will be granted many Yoshi snacks.
Thank you.

-Fat Yoshi

-USA

To see Mario RPG & its unique characters return to the Mario universe someday! be it through Mario Kart, Mario Party, Smash, or just a new game / remake, I'd love to see the characters and the world I love get introduced to a whole new audience.

-Ruby!

-Australia

For Geno to be a playable fighter in Smash!

-Gabe Genereaux

-Canada

I wish to see SMRPG characters return for a sequel!

-Protoman

-USA

Geno as a playable fighter in Smash Bros!

-Me

-USA

Geno back in Mario games

-Josh J

-Canada

To see Geno in more Mario games and possibly a proper sequel to SMRPG!

-Eric F.

-USA

To see Geno in Smash Ultimate as DLC, whether in the Fighter Pass or separate, or see him revived in any way, preferably playable, as well as to see Mario RPG as a whole become more known to the public .

-Dylan

-USA

For Mario RPG to get a true sequel or remake and for Geno to be playable fighter in Smash Bros.

-Fatmanonice

-USA

That Geno and his friends get more representation from Nintendo

-Matthew Porter

-USA

Geno in particular will return to newer Mario RPGs (including Paper Mario) as a partner, or in a remaster of SMRPG

-popomcnuggets

-USA

For my friends to be happy by seeing Geno in Smash!

-Jesykah

-USA

I wish to play as Geno in Super Smash Bros.

-Gaviotil
-South America

For Geno to be in Smash or for a Mario RPG 2

-Clayton Songster
-Japan

Super Mario RPG is my favorite game and it would mean the world to me if I could see it get more recognition. My dream is to see Geno playable in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate and maybe even to see the game get a remake eventually.

-Green
-USA

My wish is to see my star spirit puppet boi ♡♪!?
aka Geno as a playable character in Super Smash Bros Ultimate as a DLC fighter!

-Yoshimon
-USA

I've been wishing since 2012 for Geno to appear as a playable character in Super Smash Bros! Or in general. Geno is by far my most wanted character for Smash, so I'd love so much for it to finally happen. Square Enix, please!!

-Tarak0na

I wish for Geno to be included in Smash Bros Ultimate as a surprise DLC character. A Super Mario RPG remake would also be amazing. (Also for Jojo part 6 to get an anime adaptation)

-ItsMatty
-Australia

To whom it may concern,

I am here to say that after having grown up with Mario RPG on the Wii being one of my favorite games I am hopeful to see Geno get into Smash Bros Ultimate. This is something I've been hoping to see him in since Smash 4. With the announcement of more DLC I hope for my wish along with the wish of many others to finally come true. I'd love to see the creative move set that can come from this character. I'd be very surprised and happy to see his inclusion, hence this picture.

Best regards,

~A very hopeful fan, by the name Gian

Hi,

My name is Zachary and I am a huge fan of Geno and the Super Mario RPG as a whole. I grew up with the game it was apart of my life. It would mean the entire world to me if Geno can make it into Smash as a DLC character, many fans have waited for nearly 20 years for him and the other Super Mario RPG characters to come back and be in more Mario games. I've always wanted Geno since Melee and Brawl. In Smash Bros Wii U/3DS, I appreciated the Geno costume but it didn't feel the same.

So please I beg of you to put Geno in Smash Bros Ultimate as a playable DLC character, it's all I ever wanted. It would also mean a lot if their was a return of all the Super Mario RPG characters. Please Square Enix give Super Mario RPG to Nintendo and please put Geno in Super Smash Bros Ultimate as a playable DLC character. Thank you for reading this letter and I hope that you bring Geno to Smash and give the Super Mario RPG characters to Nintendo so that we can see more of Geno and Mallow in more Mario games. Please and thank you,
#GenoForSmash.

~Zachary White

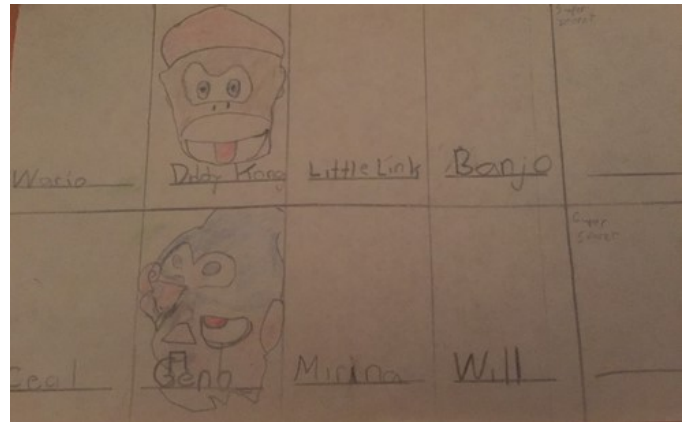

To the Powers that be,

My name is Travis Flint. I'm a long time fan of Nintendo, and a long time fan of Super Smash Brothers. It may sound silly but it's been a significant part of my life. I remember being surprised when my sister and aunt bought me the first one back in 1998 and they hid it on our N64. I remember buying the GameCube on launch because I wanted to play Melee so bad. I remember seeing the reveal trailer for Brawl and being blown away that we got five newcomers right off the hop and being excited every morning for the daily reveals on the SmashDojo. I remember the excitement of finally being able to play Smash on a handheld in Smash 4. And finally, I remember exactly where and what I was doing when I was told about the initial reveal trailer for Smash Ultimate. I went to the store and bought a Nintendo Switch within the next few hours.

I was eight years old when I first played. I am now a 28 year old grown man. I own a house, I work for a fortune 500 company, yet, I've already logged 400 hours into Ultimate. Not bad for an old man! You did the impossible and brought over 75 characters together, including some that I will be forever grateful for. The Ridley and Banjo/Kazooie trailers nearly brought me to tears. The King K. Rool trailer had me weeping, and then again later when I showed my mom and dad. I have so much to thank you for, and I'm so grateful for everything you've done with this series.

Every fan of Smash has that one character that they will always hope for, that they will always push for. For me, that character is Geno from Super Mario RPG. Again, going back to childhood memories, I know exactly where I was and who I was with back in 1996 when I first saw Super Mario RPG. I remember seeing this new style of Mario game with these cool new characters. This game captivated me. It was a game my whole family played and it's one of my favorites to this day.

Geno represents a lot to a huge amount of Nintendo fans. I've been a major supporter of him since Brawl, but I have wanted him in ever since the first one came out. This was a picture (albeit one of the worst drawings as I was about eight) I drew after I got the first Smash. The proof of this is because I also was rooting for "Little Link" who later would be announced in Melee as Young Link. Even as I write this as a grown adult, I remember the days where I'd be advocating for him religiously because of how cool he was and how awesome Super Mario RPG was. I wanted to see what he'd be like modernized. I'd love to see what kind of move set you'd come up with. I wanted to see him be brought back from the dead like you did with other characters such as Ice Climbers and Pit. Sure he's a bit different, but he brings a lot to the table.

I know you probably get thousands and thousands of these, but just know, if you continue to make the impossible possible, you have an entire fan base who will be forever grateful. I almost feel guilty because you've already given us so much. But if you make Geno a reality in Smash as a playable fighter, reviving him from a long absence, I don't think I could ever ask anything of you ever again. You have a fan for life, and I'll always support you. But this would be the GREATEST cherry on top. With that I say... Geno For Smash!!

Sincerely,
~Travis Flint

Hello,

I would love to see Geno playable in Smash. He is probably my best memory and most nostalgic/magical character from videogames back in the days when I was a child. Still one of my favorites heroes. Geno for DLC. You can't call it "Ultimate" without Geno in there as a playable fighter.

Thanks for the support and thanks to Sakurai, Nintendo, Square Enix and all their teams.

~Anwar, from Chile

Dear Nintendo,

I guess I first got into supporting Geno back in the summer of 2007. I was just 13 years old then, somewhat new to the internet, and incredibly excited for Super Smash Bros. Brawl. It was a crazy time in my life, the first time I really felt part of a community, and I made some of my best friends that I still talk to every day all the way back then. Geno was of course a massive fan-request back in the Brawl days, with Sakurai's journals and polling featuring him prominently. Super Mario RPG was just a little over ten years old, about the same age that Brawl is today, and remembered very fondly. I never owned an SNES, but I went out and played SMRPG for the first time based on how popular Geno was on the internet, and I fell in love with it.

Geno was by far the most interesting and coolest character I had ever seen in a Mario game. His design was fantastic, he acted really cool, and he had a gun for a hand. It was great. I joined the horde of supporters behind Geno, hoping he'd make it into Brawl. He never did.

At this point I became really great friends with someone who may be the biggest Geno fan on the planet. Since we've known each other all the way back in 2008, he's had a one track mind: Geno in Smash. I've wanted all sorts of characters--Mega Man, Little Mac, Ridley, K. Rool, and eventually I wound up getting them. But for him, it's always been Geno and he's always felt sad with the release of every Smash Bros. game. I won't pretend to understand what it's like to be that devoted to a character, but I can empathize. For years I've been hoping on his behalf, just to see him finally get that joy he's been chasing since we were kids. To me, Geno means happiness for my friend. That's why I want him in Smash most of all.

~Chris Frail

To whom it may concern,

My name is Mason, and I've been playing video games since I first got a Super Nintendo as a child. I've played and loved all sorts of games since then, but very few have stuck with me the way that Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars has. As much as I enjoy the Paper Mario and Mario & Luigi RPG games, I've always really wanted to see what a true follow-up to Super Mario RPG would look like.

Aside from that, I would absolutely love to see Geno join Super Smash Bros. Ultimate as a fully playable character. If that can't happen for whatever reason, then I'd also really like to see Geno and Mallow return to other Mario games in the future. It may have been a long time since we last saw these characters in any official capacity, but I and many others like me still cling to hope that they'll make a triumphant return!

Thanks to whoever receives this for taking the time to read my letter. It means a lot just to know that we're being heard!

~Mason

Hi,

I would love to see Geno in Smash Brothers Ultimate. I am sure he was wanted by even Sakurai in Smash Bros. Brawl. He would be fun to play as and he would make a great addition to the Smash Brothers Ultimate roster. I personally would love to see Geno make it in, as I have wanted him for such a long time now. Please add Geno to Smash Bros. Ultimate. It would be pleasing and awesome to have the one who serves a higher authority from Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars in Smash Bros. Ultimate.

~Russell Lindsey

Hello,

First of all, I want to thank both Nintendo and Square Enix for your hard work to bring both Cloud Strife and The Hero to Super Smash Bros Ultimate. I'm sorry if this might sound selfish , but I would really like both Geno and Mallow to become playable fighters instead of being part of World of Light. I honestly wouldn't mind if Geno returns as a Mii Costume, but hopefully with a great designed Geno Mask, just like Sans from Undertale. I've been playing the Super Smash Bros. series since the 64 game and one of my most memorable game I've ever played as a child was Super Mario RPG: The Legend of the Seven Stars. Thank you for your time, take care you all!

~Alexander Quispe

Dear Nintendo and Mr. Sakurai,

I just wanted to say thank you for bringing me years of entertainment and joy through the Super Smash Bros. series. I've been playing the games since I first got Super Smash Bros. Melee with my GameCube 14 years ago and I plan to continue playing Super Smash Bros. for as long as I can. Super Smash Bros. Ultimate is an achievement for all parties involved as the most ambitious crossover in video games and has quickly become one of my favorite games of all time. I can't imagine all the effort and love that the developers poured into making such a beautiful and content-filled game. As a longtime fan, it has been an absolute joy to see so many great characters from different franchises join the roster this time such as King K. Rool, Ridley, Banjo & Kazooie, Hero, and Joker. I never dreamed of seeing so many of my favorite characters in the same place, especially ones that were seemingly forgotten to time. I've gotten nearly everything I could ever ask for as a fan.

But there is one more character that I'd love to see have a spot in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate before everything is said and done. Geno from Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars is one of my favorite characters in video games and is a character I've supported for years alongside many other fans of the games. Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars was the game that I remember looking at with anticipation before its first re-release on the original Wii Virtual Console. I never had the opportunity to play it before, and the game's unique art style and direction captivated my younger self. When the title finally released on Wii Virtual Console in 2008, I immediately bought and fell in love with Super Mario RPG. I had only been willing to play Pokémon before, so it was my first real JRPG experience. I was excited to dive into such a unique and beautiful game world for the first time, and it helped develop my lifelong love of JRPG games.

Of all the unique characters specifically created for Super Mario RPG, Geno was my absolute favorite. He had such a cool design and his ability to shoot projectiles from his fingers and arms that did lots of damage was a joy to see when I was younger. He was a main part of my party throughout the game and his mysterious aura always drew me to him. Few characters have such a specific backstory of being a star warrior that possesses a doll to fight alongside Mario and friends! Geno means a great deal to me and I was disappointed that he could never be a part of future games due to being owned by Square Enix. I found the Super Smash Bros. online community in 2014 during Super Smash Bros. for Wii U and 3DS's development cycle, and I was delighted to find fellow Geno and Super Mario RPG fans. I saw a passion behind these people who had supported the character through the development of Super Smash Bros. Brawl that exceeded my own, and those people were determined to see their favorite wooden puppet make it in the roster too. I instantly joined up with them to campaign for Geno in Super Smash Bros. and I have been an active member of the Geno community ever since. When Mr. Sakurai gave an interview with Nintendo Dream in 2016 and voiced his support for Geno and mentioned that he had previously been interested in adding Geno to Super Smash Bros. Brawl, our community was elated to hear that the man responsible for our favorite series was also passionate about the character we adored and had wanted for years.

Dear Nintendo,

SMRPG was the first RPG I ever played, and I can say that after all these years, it's still the game that I finish at least once a year. I met it just when I needed it most, I had been through serious losses in that time, I was in dark times, and was partly alone. But..

The fresh experience so different from usual caught my attention, I was more excited to move forward in every moment of history, to say that it is a perfect game would not be correct, after all, there is no such thing as this, and that makes the experience natural and characteristic,

But this is a game that I felt the affection of the developers when making, humility, simplicity and at the same time something not seen before in this universe, charisma, you feel love in every part of development, there's no pretense, and first of all, it's all a game has to be, fun and honestly created.

I won't lie, I've been rooting for Geno to succeed since Melee, Sakurai commented several times about how well he matched the genre, and how much he wanted to put him on the roster, he can probably represent Mario's games of this genre, but even more, maybe come back? We fans understand that it's not simple, it's not as if it just depends on liking, we'd love to see such a charismatic and cool character again, but if it doesn't happen, that's fine too. We want you wonderful companies to see our gratitude and purity as we speak of an old game with all our hearts; after all, they fixed the star road so we can dream!

~Junior Rodrigues

To whom it may concern,

Please consider adding Geno from Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars to Super Smash Brothers Ultimate as a playable fighter. The inclusion of Geno would mean a lot to me and many others around the globe! Since before Super Smash Brothers Brawl released in 2008, Geno has been a highly-requested fighter for over 15 years now, frequently polling well in fan circles, and has indeed been noticed by Nintendo and Square Enix before, as he has a Mii Costume in Super Smash Brothers for Wii U/3DS. I (along with many others) feel that it's Geno's time to shine, and we hope you feel the same!

~Adam Nicolson

Dear Nintendo and Mr. Sakurai,

As someone who grew up with a GameCube, I never tried a Super Nintendo until later in life. It wasn't until just last year that I finally got around to playing Super Mario RPG. Many people claim that the love for Geno is purely based on nostalgia, but I was exposed to him for the first time in 2018 and now I love him just as much as the people who played Super Mario RPG when it first came out. Geno isn't just some nostalgia fueled relic. He's a timeless character who is still gaining new fans to this day!

~Jacob Cuffe

Hello,

One of my biggest and probably most recent wishes for Smash Bros DLC has to be Geno from Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars. Smash is now a main place for gaming worlds and legends to combine and cross over. I believe that it should be Geno's time to shine! Though he only appeared in one game, he has since then amassed a huge following! I myself never got to play Super Mario RPG, but I wish I had. My support for Geno is at an all time high! I first heard of him back in Brawl days, and heard word that Sakurai wanted to add him in since Brawl. Then once Smash for Wii U had Geno as a Mii costume, I was excited to see Geno's reveal for Smash Ultimate! Here's to hoping he'll make it as DLC!

~Dalolman

I've wanted very few things in life more than I want Geno in Smash, ever since the release of the original N64 Smash Bros.

-Joseph Anthony Randazzo III
-USA

A remake or sequel with new bosses harder than Culex...!!!

-Claudio Barrales
-South America

Geno for Smash!

-I Am!
-USA

I want to see Geno return to the spotlight, along with the rest of the cast!

-Glitch-EGamer
-USA

For Geno to be playable in Smash Ultimate

-Oats
-USA

Bring Geno back!

-Ben Ward
-USA

Geno in SSBU!

-David Grimaldi

-USA

That Geno gets into Smash Bros. Ultimate.

-Willow

-USA

I would like to see Geno as a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros Ultimate!

-Jeff

-USA

Please do another Super Mario RPG (like Square X Nintendo SMRPG) or at least have Geno represented in Smash

-Ben Langhammer

-Canada

To See Geno as a Playable character in Super Smash abroad Ultimate and a Mario RPG Remake.

-Plank

-USA

Geno in Super Smash Bros.

-agamenaris

-Mexico

To have a sequel for Super Mario RPG, following the same stream from the first game. I loved that game.

-Junior S

-USA

I want to revisit the world of Smithy, Star Road, Geno, and others. A true sequel is my wish. With the great writing, music and fun of the first Super Mario RPG.

-RAeIDRAke

-USA

To see a grand revival of Super Mario RPG, rather it be a sequel or a remake!

-Christopher Stanley

-USA

To have Geno return in a Nintendo game with a big role, mostly as a fighter in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate to start!

-slopdop

-Canada

For Geno to get into Smash

-Tim Jones

-Europe

Geno to be playable in Smash Bros.

-ARico

-USA

I would like to see a remake (or sequel, but a remake much more) of Super Mario RPG!

-Ridley12

-USA

For Geno to be in Super Smash Brothers Ultimate as a playable character. I may not care as much when compared to other Geno fans, but I got a few homies who do, and I'd love to see them get hyped over him.

-Zetterar

-USA

GENO IN SMASH ULTIMATE!!! - I love everything about this deep, complex, powerful, voice of reason and moral compass of a character! He is too good a character for only 1.1 games!

-Ethereal

-USA

For Geno to be in Smash

-YaBoiMystic

-USA

For Geno to be in Smash Ultimate

-Sean Oliver

-USA

I wish to see a brand new Mario RPG game featuring Geno and Mallow.

-Doshy

-Canada

A Super Mario RPG remake

-Roosevelt Cole
-USA

To see Geno, Mallow and others again in any way.

-Gabe
-Mexico

Please bring my Geno doll back.

-Charles
-USA

I wish to see a remake or re-imagining of Super Mario RPG so a whole new generation can experience the joy and wonder I did back when I played this game when I was little.

-Alexander J.
-USA

Please bring Geno back or put him in Smash I miss him so much...

-Ash
-USA

Free our blue puppet boi!

-ForsakenM
-USA

I wish that Nintendo wouldn't forget about games and franchises and cut them off without giving any responses to fans' protests. Please put Geno in Smash Bros!

-Robiri

-USA

Geno in Smash!

-Rooster

-USA

May you PLEASE bring Geno to Smash, I've quite literally waited my whole life for him!!!

-Judy / Vij

-USA

I wish Geno was a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros!

-Jack Folmer

-USA

An HD remake/remaster of Super Mario RPG on Switch and/or Geno in Super Smash Bros!

-@6hundridlemon aka 600billionlazer

-USA

For Super Mario RPG to get a sequel or for Geno to get his own game

-BoringName

-USA

For Super Mario RPG to get either a remake or sequel with a wonderful art style

-OJorge0

-USA

For Geno to be recognized and become a playable character in Super Smash Bros Ultimate!

-James Morphy

-Canada

I want Geno playable in a God damn game again

-R-Senal

-USA

I honestly would love a remaster or sequel on the Switch... or maybe both?

-lowpolyneko

-USA

For Nintendo to return to their older standard of RPG. Characters old and new, with charming personalities. I have only played SPM and was hooked by Bowser's dialogue. If Geno returns too, that would also be cool.

-Anonymous

-USA

I want to see Geno again in a Mario game again.

-Mac

-USA

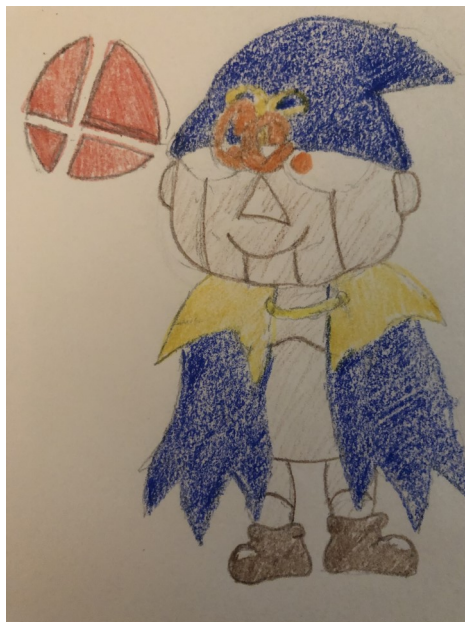

Dear Nintendo and/or Square Enix,

I first would love to thank both sides for hearing out a random fan somewhere on this marvelous planet. It means a lot. Anyway, about the topic at hand.

Ever since I experienced your Super Nintendo classic game, Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars, on my Nintendo Wii, I have grown quite attached to Geno since I was little. I loved, and still love, his weapons, attacks, charm, and design. He is my favorite character in the game! I've since bought myself a Super Nintendo Classic just to replay the game once again. My opinions on the character have yet to change.

I, as well as many, many fans, would be ecstatic to see Geno reappear in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate as a playable fighter. Sakurai and his team would translate him well perfectly. With the release of Super Nintendo Online, I think this is the perfect opportunity to advertise how amazing this character can be by putting the iconic RPG on there as well! I also guarantee that multiple people will gain massive respect for both of you for listening to the fans, which has been shown numerous times with newcomers Ridley, King K. Rool, And Banjo & Kazooie. Geno would fit into Super Smash Bros. like a glove. Besides, he is collecting dust and desperately needs a brand new game to be included in. Such an amazing character does not deserve to go to waste. We would deeply appreciate to see him come back in the most major role possible for this game. Thank you.

Sincerely,
~Wigi Wobbles

Dear Nintendo,

One of my favorite games is Super Mario RPG, and that's because of a specific character: Geno. He was such a cool and wise character, a Guardian of the Star Road. My wish is for him to come back in any game, but specially in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate as DLC. I would be so happy if he came back in that game as a playable character, and I don't think I am the only one that wants him in anyways. I hope you hear this message from me. I also drew a fanart of him. I hope this writing was worth it, but for now, bye!

~Dennis

Dear Nintendo & Square,

Hello, my name is Justin or "Wishes" as I go by online. I'm an 18 year old Nintendo fan and professional smash bros player, Geno in smash has been my dream for over a year now and I can't even begin to say how much it'd mean to me and so many others if he got included for DLC. Mario RPG was a game which helped me through a hard period of my life, my anxiety was higher than it'd ever been, I had no direction, I had little passion left, but knowing I could come home after a rough day and play Mario RPG gave me strength. It's a game that I feel in love with, I game which never fails to put a smile on my face, and in turn it's why I love Geno so much. Geno just makes me happy, and being able to play Geno in my favorite game is my biggest dream right now. Competing with him on a big stage, representing a character I love so much, a character who has helped me through so much. It'd mean the world to me. Thank you for listening, we all love you guys, keep doing amazing things.

Best regards,

~Justin

Hi Nintendo/Square,

I'm Charlie, a long time fan of yours! I've loved the character GENO, since Super Mario RPG Legend of the Seven Stars was released back in 1996. I bought it day one, it was the first RPG I'd ever experienced, back when I was 9 years old. I still own the game with box and manual in great shape. I still own the Player's Guide that came with my subscription to Nintendo Power. I played the game a ton with childhood friends. I've dreamed of Geno being in another Mario game forever, and even speculated that he would be in Super Smash Bros. Melee or whatever would come after.

I've followed his appearances, in 2003 I bought Mario and Luigi Superstar Saga for Game Boy Advance because he was in it. I campaigned heavily in 2006-2008 for Geno's inclusion as a fighter during the lead up to Super Smash Bros. Brawl in my college days. I can't thank Mr. Sakurai enough for giving Geno a chance as a Mii Fighter costume for Super Smash Bros. for Wii U/3DS! I downloaded it immediately to show my support! And I still play as him. I felt like Geno was definitely going to get in the next Smash as a full fighter.

So Nintendo and Square, as you can see I'm a long time supportive fan of your product. I'm 32 years old, and as I get older, the Geno character stays with me. The magic you two made together back in 1996 for Super Mario RPG still touches my heart as a fan. I would FOREVER be in gratitude to you, to finally see Geno brought back as a fighter with his own stage and music for Super Smash Bros. Ultimate.

And it isn't just me, Geno has millions of fans around the world, who are clamoring for his return, and they're just as passionate if not more! And they would download Geno in droves if you made him playable.

I work very hard as a production assistant in New York City, and I have a friend who is a sculptor at work, and he made me my very own Geno action figure. It's almost complete! Thank you for reading my message. Please make Geno a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate, it would make me so happy! Go Geno!

Your long time fan,
~Charlie Tammara of Wood-Ridge New Jersey

Geno Action Figure By: Charlie Tammaro

Hello,

SMRPG means a lot to me and has since I first played it when I was very young, it's colorful cast of characters and unforgettable music. For over 12 years now, I've been hoping for some sort of revival of these amazing characters and to shed more light to the game. A dream of mine was always having something from those games in Smash Brothers and Geno would definitely settle that in and help introduce a new age of players to love the game that I grew to love. The game was an amazing coping mechanism for me to help with my stunted youth from disabilities. Here's hoping we get something for us. We've come so far, only one pillar left.

~C.C.

To Nintendo, Square, and Masahiro Sakurai,

I have been a long time fan and have also done some speed runs of Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars. To me SMRPG is a very important and cherished game that I hold in a high regard to this day. It helped shape my interests in the Fantasy/RPG genres and in my opinion, SMRPG has aged very well and can still be played by many new curious minds that are taking interest in older video games. I still play SMRPG over and over to this day all the way from when I first rented it at a gas station at the age of 5. For over 20 years I still consider it to be my top favorite Super Nintendo game. In the picture I have attached in this letter is my SMRPG cartridge along with the instruction manual turned to the Geno page. This character means so much to me!

Geno to me is like a really cool action figure equipped with so much weaponry, star powered abilities, and the amazing ability to shape shift into a cannon. Geno's story of how the star spirit ♥♪! possesses him to fight alongside Mario and friends to find the Star Pieces and take down the evil forces of the Smithy Gang is one that I always replay in my head time and time again when I'm not playing it and I always love replaying this story when I get a chance to play the game again!

For me and many others all around the world, we would love to see Geno make a return in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate. Geno has a unique design, amazing move set potential, and the charm to appeal to many types of players. With adding Geno and SMRPG to Smash Bros Ultimate it would be the perfect fit along with including the amazing SMRPG soundtrack composed by Yoko Shimomura who is one of my top favorite video game composers/soundtrack arrangers.

Sakurai, I thank you greatly for adding in so many amazing characters to Smash Bros Ultimate with my favorites being Ridley, King K. Rool, Simon & Richter Belmont, Banjo & Kazooie. I appreciate all the hard work you've done for this game with getting these characters into Smash. It would mean the world to me and to so many others if you would please add Geno to Super Smash Bros Ultimate. Geno is the number one character that I have always wanted to have in Smash Bros since Smash Bros Brawl and would fulfill so many wishes that a lot of us have wished for a very long time, thank you very much!

Sincerely,
~Dylan

I just want to see the Smithy Gang again

-Smithykins @Smithysbud

-USA

To Geno and Mallow to come back to the mainstream Mario series! Or even in spinoffs such as Mario Kart and others, I would love to see my favorite videogame characters in those games.

-A Chilean Nintendo Fan

-South America

Put my man Geno in Smash Bros.

-Posso

-Europe

Bring Geno and the other Super Mario RPG characters back to Nintendo! They don't belong to Square Enix!

-NEO Mystic

-Canada

I thought at first this was for a remake of the game, that doesn't sound like a bad idea really. I'd love to see Geno and Mallow return in a Mario game.

-Doctor Venuz

-USA

I wish Geno to visit the Mushroom Kingdom more often

-jaxson

-USA

I wish to see Geno playable in Smash Bros.

-Somari

-USA

I wish for Nintendo and Square Enix teaming up and make a remaster of Super Mario RPG.

-GissyEva

-USA

I want Geno in smash or at least his costume dam-nit...

-Tyler Wolf

-USA

I wish that Geno and other unique characters from SMRPG become mainstays in the Mario franchise in any way. From Geno being a playable character in smash brothers to Geno and Mallow being DLC in Mario tennis aces. I would be content with them being like Waluigi in the sense that they only appear in spin offs as it would be better than nothing.

-Gruntbones -USA

I would like the original characters (mainly Geno and Mallow) of Super Mario RPG to come back in any form; Super Smash Bros, a new Mario RPG, Mario Kart, Mario Party, Mario Sports titles, anything!

-Shado-will

-USA

For Geno to join the Super Smash Brothers Ultimate DLC Fighters Pass

-Superstu

-USA

For Geno to become playable in Smash, and for Mario RPG assets to appear in Mario games! I would also love a true sequel to the original classic that helped shape the Mario universe as we know it today.

-8Melodies

-USA

I wish for a remake of Super Mario RPG

-Mr. Yoshi

-USA

That my boy Geno get in Smash :c

-Junior Rodrigues

-South America

My wish is Geno being a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros Ultimate, also a SMRPG remake or even that him and Mallow can appear in more Mario games.

-Alcachofa

-South America

I wish That we got a SMRPG remake in the style of the M&L games and Geno in Smash Bros.

Maybe I'm asking for too much but I love this game so much.

-Sean Kennedy

-USA

I wish Nintendo would give Geno some more recognition. Sure, he has a spirit in SSBU, but what else has he appeared in before that outside of SMRPG? Plus, he's just a really cool character! I love his design!

-Daemon T.

-USA

Add Geno to either at least one Mario sports game or Smash Bros and I guarantee he will become even more popular.

-Luke

-USA

I wish for a remaster or sequel of Super Mario RPG and for Geno and Mallow to return to the Mario universe.

-owjies

-USA

That Geno makes it into Smash Bros Ultimate.

-Joe M

-USA

A reappearance for Geno and Mallow in some form! Regardless of if it's in a sequel to SMRPG or as a playable character in Smash, I want Mallow and Geno to come back.

-Mason

-USA

For Geno and Mallow to be in Smash Bros or any modern appearance.

-Liam O.

-USA

I want Geno is Smash Bros.

-Super

-USA

To see Geno make an appearance in another game.

-Morgan Looney
-USA

私はジェノがSuper Smash Brosで遊ぶことができるキャラクターになりたい！

-オースティン
-Japan

For Nintendo and Square-Enix to team up once again to re-release or remaster Super Mario RPG. This game is fantastic and I'm sure that a large amount of people would be happy to be able to play it again.

-Spanky Pants
-Canada

For more Mario RPG in the style of SNES and/or a spinoff with the same characters.

-Nick Gullett
-USA

I hope Mallow and Geno come back someday because they were like genuine heroes of the story instead of just Mario's sidekicks. They were really special. Paper Mario partners for the RPGs and Luigi + random toads for the 2D games are fine, but Mario RPG's characters were perfect.

-keaton
-USA

To see Geno as a playable character in Super Smash Bros Ultimate and a Mario RPG Remake.

-Plank
-USA

To have Geno in smash, and to have either an HD remake of Mario RPG, a sequel or at least a port to the Nintendo Switch. It will be cool if we get a lot of the Mario RPG music in Smash too.

-Angel Rodríguez
-Mexico

A remake and these characters used in more games. (Axem rangers, Geno, Mallow, Booster, ETC.)

-Zeno
-Europe

I wish for Geno to be in Super Smash Bros!

-tmmitche
-USA

I hope Geno and Mallow make a playable appearance someday :)

-Cheeseseatbelt!!
-USA

To see Geno in Smash and see his fans happy .

-OTB

For both Mallow and Geno to be playable in Super Smash Bros and Mario Kart, for a remastered version of Super Mario RPG, and for a sequel to Super Mario RPG

-Joscar
-USA

Super Mario RPG is a game i wished i played and beaten earlier. When I finished the game it was hard for me to say goodbye....so my wish is to bring back our friends who only appeared in one game. It would be amazing to see them again

-G0nard

-Canada

For the world of Super Mario RPG to comeback in any form. Especially bringing Geno and Mallow into modern Mario games. Also a sequel with similar game mechanics would be nice.

-Musubi

-USA

Super Mario RPG direct sequel made by Square and Nintendo.

-Necro Toad

-South America

To see a remastered form of Super Mario RPG.

-Duncan McGraw

-USA

I wish to see Super Mario RPG majorly represented and acknowledged for the first time since its release!

-Dar

-Europe

I'd love to see a game release similar to that of Super Mario RPG, especially one including many of the original characters.

-Chase Jewell

-USA

Hello,

I'm from South America, Argentina. I saw the address to send the letter in the SmashBoards and I'm very pleased to express my love for Geno.

First of all, some story. Super Mario RPG came to me at 6 years old. In the intro, I discovered a character that attracted me for a long time. A wooden doll in blue, who falls of the sky, Geno. He looked so cool, and awesome, it took my attention. In the Forest Maze, and when I reach to him, and finally I be able to play as him, I felt so good. The character itself got me amused, its aura, his way to speak, how he was funny and serious when he needed to be.

And so I keep playing, and then I reached the Factory, and Smithy, and then... I finished the game. I literally started to cry, Why? Simple, I have finished the game...yeah I should feel happy, but no, it was very sad for me. It was not only the cutscenes, and the added music, it was the fact that Geno, was leaving Mario and the crew...and, in sort of way, leaving me...us, his fans. For a moment I felt it personal. so I, and many people have been waiting for his return.

Years have been passed, now I'm 22. My life is the average teenager-adult life, but the videogames are the way to take me back to my childhood. So when I got time, I enjoy some Mario RPG...but, then I realize, that I'm still waiting for Geno. Sure, the Mario franchise got his hits, like Galaxy...but THAT game, leave some mark on me, and with me, there are too much people that still waits for Geno's return. Please, Nintendo, Sakurai, Square, make it possible. Please bring back our beloved Geno.

We would thank you gratefully.

~A South-American

Hello,

My name is Green, and I am a fan of the Mario RPGs. I discovered them in middle school with Super Mario RPG and have played every single one of them since. Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars came to me at a very hard point in my life and the game introduced me a bigger Mario world, which was an escape from my situation at the time. Super Mario RPG kicked off two of the best Mario series, Paper Mario and Mario & Luigi. Both of which have expanded the Mario world and started an interest in creating lore and stories that I keep near to my heart to this day.

Of all the fantastic Mario RPGs, Super Mario RPG still stands out as one of the best. It's my favorite game of all time, and I think the game should get more representation for starting Mario's long lasting journey into the RPG genre. Geno, a personal favorite character for me and many others, would be a perfect fit as Mario RPG representation for the Smash Bros. series. I already loved the work put into Geno's Mii Gunner costume in Smash Bros. for Wii U and 3DS, as well as the fantastic inclusion of the Geno & Mallow spirits in Smash Bros. Ultimate. I would love to see Geno make the final step into a playable character.

Geno is a character that means a lot to me from a game that to this day is still my favorite of all time. To see a character who has played a hand in shaping Mario RPGs for years to come, the Mario world, and even my own art, in a game as wonderful as Smash Ultimate, would be my dream come true. Thank you for making Super Smash Bros. Ultimate the best game you can, and thank you for considering Geno for a spot in the roster. Keep up the amazing work!

~Green

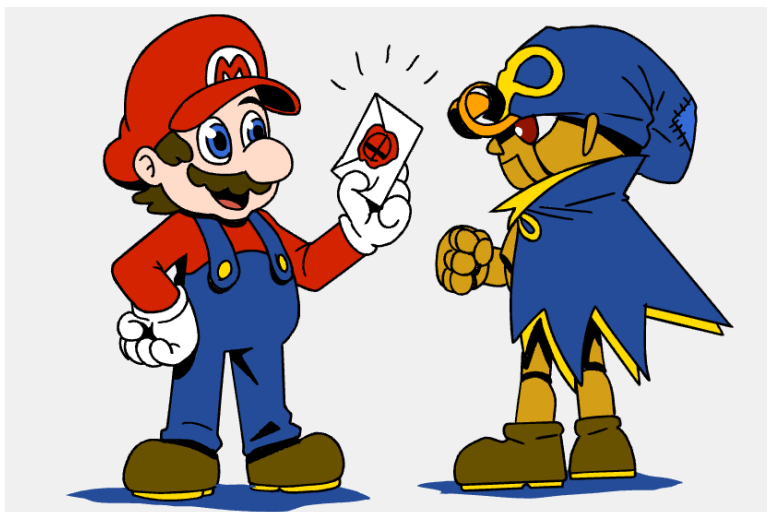

Dear Nintendo,

My favorite video game characters have always been Mario, Cloud Strife, and Geno. One of these characters is a bit unlike the others...

When I was growing up, the only game that I ever wanted to rent was Super Mario RPG. I had to rent it because every year I asked for it for my birthday and we were never able to find a copy. Finally years later I was able to own it on virtual console and it was just as perfect as I remembered. It was unlike anything I'd ever seen before as a kid. Something about seeing the world of Mario so alive and so populated was just so magical to me, and it's a feeling that I've rarely been able to recapture. That game had so much personality and love put into it, and the character that embodies that feeling is Geno. Seeing Mario's cast grow to Mallow and Geno was so exciting. I definitely expected to see more of them, but they were absent from the following games like Mario Kart 64 and Paper Mario. I was so saddened to see my favorite characters missing. Because unlike the later cast that would join Mario in his RPG adventures, Geno and Mallow felt more like additions to the Mario main lineup than one-off characters for this specific adventure.

I would love to see Geno return to the world of Mario, and I think for a lot of fans, that opportunity presents itself in Smash. Geno IS the Mario RPG rep, no other character from Paper Mario or the Mario and Luigi series even comes close to him in terms of how much he symbolizes Mario's first forays into the world of turn based combat. Bringing him back, especially in a playable form as a Smash DLC character, would make so many fans happy to finally see their wishes come true. Because right now, it feels like Smithy won and Star Road has been broken for over a decade. Help grant this wish, Nintendo and Square Enix! It would mean the world to us.

I want to see a world where Geno, Mario, and Cloud can fight together.

~Trey Buongiorno

Dear Nintendo/Square Enix,

Thank you so much for the recent additions to Super Smash Bros. Ultimate! The recent addition of Hero has been exceptionally fun! However, now that additional DLC fighters have been announced, it would be an honor for you to add Geno as a fighter in Smash.

Not only for me, but for a large group of people, Super Mario RPG the Legend of the Seven Stars has affected so many people in numerous ways. For me, it helped me cope with some depression I was experiencing. I was in a bit of a slump, but turning this game on was one of the factors which helped me through it all. Geno, himself, would be a great representative of the Mario RPG genre, and a wonderful character overall. He's brought so much joy to others and I believe he'd be an amazing addition. As well, I've supported this notion since Brawl, and I still think he'd be just as great now.

To show you how passionate I am about Geno, I've attached some pictures of the wooden doll himself, that I've made using wood, felt, metal wiring and paint! He himself has such a good message in his own game and was an amazing element added. I thank you again for all of your hard work, support, and reading this article, and I hope that Geno will be considered.

~Bobby Tornese

Dear Nintendo,

My name is Shane. I have been a fan of your games as long as I can remember, starting out during the era of the GameCube. While I started past the new millennia, the experiences of past generations have not been missed. The Super Nintendo Entertainment System has been one of my favorite game systems of all time, with the extraordinary help of just one game. I am writing this letter to you as a cry, along with the other members of Operation Starfall, to one day see the return of the essence of this game. That game is Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars.

I have been a fan of SMRPG and Geno since 2008, giving me well over a decade of thought when it comes to this letter. I was ecstatic to hear the news of SMRPG coming to the Wii U's Virtual Console when it was announced, and as of now I am very excited for the future of the Nintendo Switch's SNES Online. Something equally as exciting for me was the recent announcement of additional DLC fighters being developed for Super Smash Bros. Ultimate. These two announcements in tandem give me an unreasonable amount of hope to see the revival of SMRPG through both areas. Geno has been a consistently popular character in the Smash community since the days of Brawl, with his name being heard all the way back to 1999. The additions of Ridley, King K. Rool, Banjo & Kazooie, and surprisingly the Mii Costume of Sans from the Undertale series, cement the idea of fan-favorites finally making their way into the game. Ultimate is meant as the be-all and end-all Smash game, at least for a long while. It would only make sense to make all the stops and throw Geno into the ring as well. For even further interest, Geno's reveal could be tied with SMRPG coming to SNES Online. Seeing the reawakening of this classic title would send shockwaves throughout the Internet.

Thank you for taking the time to read this, if it truly is being heard. A lot of people are rallying to see Geno become a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate. Wishes have been getting granted for so long, but now it's time for the one granting the wishes to rest.

~Shane (Slender)

To whoever it may concern, be it Nintendo, Square, or Sora Ltd.:

I'd like to ask that you please consider adding Geno from Super Mario RPG to Super Smash Bros. Ultimate as a new DLC fighter (Or hey, add him to anything! Mario Kart would be cool to see.) Geno's one of my all-time favorite characters from one of my all-time favorite games, and it'd be a dream come true to be able to play as him again. I think he would work really well in Smash, to me he fits perfectly with the rest of the fighters in the game. From his fun, proud, but serious personality, to his cool attacks, to his awesome look, Geno is my dream Smash fighter.

More than anything, he's the one I'd love to see in Smash most. I've been hoping for Geno to join the Smash roster for at least 6 or 7 years now, and I'll keep at it for as long as I have to. That's all I can think to say. Thank you!

Sincerely,

~Ruby

Dear Nintendo of America and Square Enix,

There is a huge level of love and support toward Super Mario RPG and the idea of Geno in Super Smash Bros.! I've loved Super Mario RPG since discovering it on the Wii's Virtual Console in 2008. Consequently, I've been a huge supporter of Geno for Smash since I saw an unprecedented amount of support for him online around the same time. I've seen over 10 years of love for Mario RPG and longing for Geno appearing in Smash - half of my life! Because of online communities and efforts like Operation Starfall, I know I've never been alone in this. I hope this effort communicates the fact that seeing Geno in Super Smash Bros. and/or seeing a remake of Super Mario RPG in the future would cause a similar wonderful reaction to that of characters like King K. Rool and Banjo, and to other remakes of beloved games like Final Fantasy 7 and Link's Awakening. We would all love to see Super Mario RPG return in some form!

Sincerely,

~Tucker Wooley

To whom it may concern, be it Sakurai-san, a Nintendo or Square representative, whoever;

I go by Serenade and I've been playing Super Smash Bros. since it came out on the N64. I've loved every game to death and have been extremely happy with them. Thanks to these games, I've been able to leave behind my life of being an introvert, compete with a diverse crowd of people, meet new friends and become a community leader, helping others to undergo the same transformation I did, all thanks to a video game. I want to start this letter off by giving a sincere thanks for the last twenty years of my life being taken on this wild ride thanks to a cartoony fighting game that caught my interest thanks to four guys in mascot outfits skipping through a field of flowers.

The real purpose of this letter, though, is to humbly request that a character I've been wanting since shortly after unlocking the full Melee roster finally join the battle. Geno, star possessed action figure. There's a history between me and Super Mario RPG, and it's a long one that I love to pour out every now and again because it makes me happy to think about.

It all starts Christmas, 1996. A year of playing Super Mario 64 demos at Toys R Us really set the stage for what I wanted Santa to bring me that year, and boy oh boy, did I get more than I asked for. Not only was there a brand new Nintendo 64 waiting for me under that tree, there was also a Super Nintendo. A little earlier that year, I had convinced my mom to buy a Super Nintendo from a second hand store because I bought The Legend of Zelda: A Link to the Past from a going out of business sale, but as it turned out, she had already gotten me one for Christmas too.

What was special about this SNES though (aside from the fact that it was brand new!) was that it came bundled with the Super NES Cleaning Kit, and Super Mario RPG - back when they taped the games right to the box... I remember it so well. Sure, there was a Nintendo 64 there with Mario 64 just waiting to be busted into, but I had been playing that demo an awful lot. This was a whole new game, and Mario and the whole gang was right there on the cover, looking like they were made out of clay or something, and it was just so tempting. Needless to say, my first move was to play Super Mario RPG. As my first RPG, it dominated my life for a little while. It was so new, to have a Mario world full of characters with something to say, unique personalities outside of what I already knew. It was complicated for six year old me, but it was fascinating. Difficult. Addicting. Going between it and Mario 64, I forged new paths in both games, but Mario RPG lasted me much longer. My mom renewed my Nintendo Power subscription and I picked the Super Mario RPG players' guide as my subscription bonus, and that's where I really took off. All that knowledge at my fingertips and still, everything felt like it was virtually unknown to me. I used it when I got stuck or wanted to know where hidden items were, but otherwise still played the game blind. That's when I met Geno. I'll never know what it was that made him so cool to me, aside from the fact that he was likely designed to be so cool. I know now that he's essentially part of an archetype of cool, powerful characters, but at the time, Mario RPG was all I knew. He was brave. Mysterious. Strong. Up until thirty minutes ago, he was an action figure! Sure, later in the game, Bowser was cool, but Geno never left my party. I dressed up as him for Halloween of 1997. His departure at the end of the game nearly brought me to tears. I missed him just as much as Mario and the gang seemed to miss him.

I still do.

(1/2)

A new Mario RPG game with the characters from the original Super Mario RPG.

-Juan G

-USA

For Geno to be in SUPER SMASH BROS.! (bonus points if he uses his real name, ♥J!?, but pronounced as Geno)

-mr. catman / rudestbuster

-USA

A sequel or a remake of Super Mario RPG!

-Matthew Bridges

-USA

A remake of SMRPG and Geno in Super Smash Bros

-BlueTech (Hunter)

-USA

To see Boshi as an echo character for Yoshi in Smash someday

-Farhan Gustama

-Asia

Geno 4 Smash!

-genolad6969

-USA

Super Mario RPG Remake (Chihiro Fujioka)

-Victor Núñez
-Mexico

Mario RPG characters getting more rep in Mario related titles.

-Thomas Cordell
-USA

I would love to see all these characters return to a sequel or remake of SMRPG. Also put Geno in Smash Bros!

-TheBilldozer
-USA

For SMRPG to be recognized again, to give a chance for Geno to get in Smash so he may represent the game and inspire younger people to play it and have fun .

-Nebula
-Europe

For Geno to join the Super Smash Bros. series as a playable fighter.

-Daniel Montoya
-USA

For the game to be remade, for Geno to get into Smash (not as a Mii Fighter) or for Geno, Mallow, and any other unique characters in the game to be used for something more. They were fantastic in the game; a very unique playstyle when paired with Mario, Bowser, and Peach, three mainstream Mario characters with no real magic to speak of (except Bowser if you count Magikoopas). It's genuinely a tragedy that such a beloved game with such beloved characters was only made once and had nothing else to go with it.

-Hunter -USA

For Geno to become a playable character in Smash.
I want him to come home and be a part of the crew that he once was.

-Randommaniac
-USA

Geno to be in Smash Bros and a remake of Super
Mario RPG to come for Switch

-ChargeBolt
-USA

I wish Geno to be welcomed in by the Smash Community.

-Damon
-Mexico

I wish for Geno to just be mentioned in some shape or form officially by Nintendo or Square

-Aubby
-USA

To have Super Mario RPG on the Nintendo Switch

-Kevin V.

For Super Mario RPG characters to appear more often in future games, an RPG remake would be really cool too!

-kwezmer
-USA

I want to see Geno, Mallow and other characters return to more Mario games and franchises including Mario Kart, Mario Tennis as well as many new adventures that Mario will be going on!

-Squish Mahatter
-Canada

A Super Mario RPG Remake on the Nintendo Switch with Geno as a playable character in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate.

-Lizard-y
-USA

My wish is for there to be a Super Mario RPG remake and for Geno to be playable in Super Smash Bros Ultimate

-Joshua Blau
-USA

I want to see Geno as a fully playable character in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate!

-Blaze Uchiha
-USA

BRING MY BOY HOME TO SMASH and maybe even bring Mario RPG home ♥♥♥♥♥

-Joe DelSantro (SteelRaids)
-USA

Geno as a playable character in Smash Ultimate. Return of both Boshi & Booster as re-occurring Mario-series character and finally a Super Mario RPG direct sequel!

-Johnnie
-Europe

This is a great idea! I am rooting for Geno to get into Smash Bros for you guys!

-ResidentBuilder
-Europe

For Geno to appear as a Fighter in super Smash Brothers Ultimate, or anything else, I just want to see him come back to the Mario Universe

-ComicWaterz
-USA

I wish for a Super Mario RPG remaster, and Geno in Smash Bros.

-Ciel (@sks316)
-USA

My wish is for Geno to be added into Super Smash Bros. Ultimate because he is a badass character.

-I'm making this wish.
-USA

I wish for Geno to be added into Super Smash Bros. Ultimate.

-FreezingTNT
-USA

スマッシュブラザーズのジェノ

-幕之内一步
-Japan

To have Croco become a party member in another Mario RPG game.

-Charlie

-USA

For Geno to be in Smash Bros and for Nintendo and Square to collab to make a Super Mario RPG sequel.

-Sassy McGee

-USA

This sounds basic, but I've wanted Geno in Smash forever. Or- any reference to him in a modern Nintendo game would be amazing.
Please Nintendo!!

-HudU

-USA

Super Mario RPG Remastered!!!!!!!!!!

-Anthon

-USA

To have a Mario RPG very similar to FF Tactics Advance.

-Matt

-USA

I wish for Geno to be a playable character in Super Smash Bros!

-Terry Crews

-USA

For everyone's wish to come true #wholesome

-Zeak Da'Zombie
-USA

I've been wishing for Geno to be in Smash Bros since 2009. Would love to see him finally get in!

-BeeJees
-Europe

To get Geno in Smash Bros

-sans gaming
-USA

I wish Geno makes it into a Super Smash Bros game some day... or a remake of Super Mario RPG...

-Mouktar Aly
-USA

For Mallow and Geno to be added to Smash

-TRF
-Canada

I wish for Geno to be a playable character in Super Smash Bros

-M.mAn
-USA

I was 9 years old when Smash came out on the N64. I thought it was the coolest thing to be able to finally settle the playground disputes of whether Mario could beat Luigi, or Link, or what it would be like for Pikachu to fight against a person. Obviously at the time, I didn't think it could get much better. Of course... then comes Melee. What an eye opener to just how big a character select screen could get, and to think it happened in only two years! Due to the timing and how long it took me to actually complete Super Mario RPG, and also due to the fact that I loved it so much I went back and played it again, it was still fresh in my mind. I couldn't get enough of that game, so in my mind, I saw Mario, Peach, and Bowser... and Peach had her frying pan, and her double slap, and the parasol she floated down from her room with... and there was one more character I thought we could use to fill out the group. "They should have put in Geno!", 11 year old me said.

And then 16 year old me said "I hope they put Geno in", when Brawl was teased in 2006. And 18 year old me sighed when I unlocked all of the characters in Brawl and Geno was nowhere to be found. "I hope they put Geno in this time!", said a 20 year old me at the first mention of Smash for 3DS and Wii U in early 2011... And 24 year old me sighed when it turned out Geno wouldn't be in the roster for Smash for 3DS and Wii U. But there was DLC! "I hope they'll put Geno in as DLC", said a 26 year old me. Then there was the Mii costume. It was cool, and I appreciate the sentiment, but... It isn't what it could be. To read Sakurai's comments on how he wanted Geno in Brawl and it didn't work out, and that the costume was essentially the best he could do at the time... It gave me hope. It wasn't over.

2018. E3. Simon and K. Rool are revealed. Ridley is already here. "I hope they'll add Geno, the costume, the splash screen... it was all leading up to this!"... 27 year old me watched as the final characters were revealed 22 days before my birthday and Geno was nowhere to be found. Even Piranha Plant made it, and the memory I have of how big Melee's character select screen was seems almost childish, like how big 100 dollars seems when you're 6.

But there was the Fighters Pass and once again, despite feeling like I gave up hope, I said "I hope they'll add Geno". Here we are in the present. 2019, almost the end of the Fighters Pass. 28 year old me is writing this letter that I think I have to consider my final plea for Geno. It's been 17 years that I've been hoping for my favorite video game action figure to make it into Smash, and what I'm really and truly hoping as I write this letter is that it's going to fall into the lap of a representative who laughs because he's already in the game. I hope that we find out Geno is prepped up for DLC launch before this letter even makes it to the printer, before it gets out the door, and before it finds its final destination in the mail room. That's the best case scenario - that I wasted my time writing this letter because it didn't have to change anyone's mind.

Anyway, thanks for taking the time to read this. I know it's a long one, but I have a habit of making simple things longer than they need to be. Really, the condensed version of this is just "I hope they'll add Geno!"

Respectfully,
A big nerd,
~Serenade

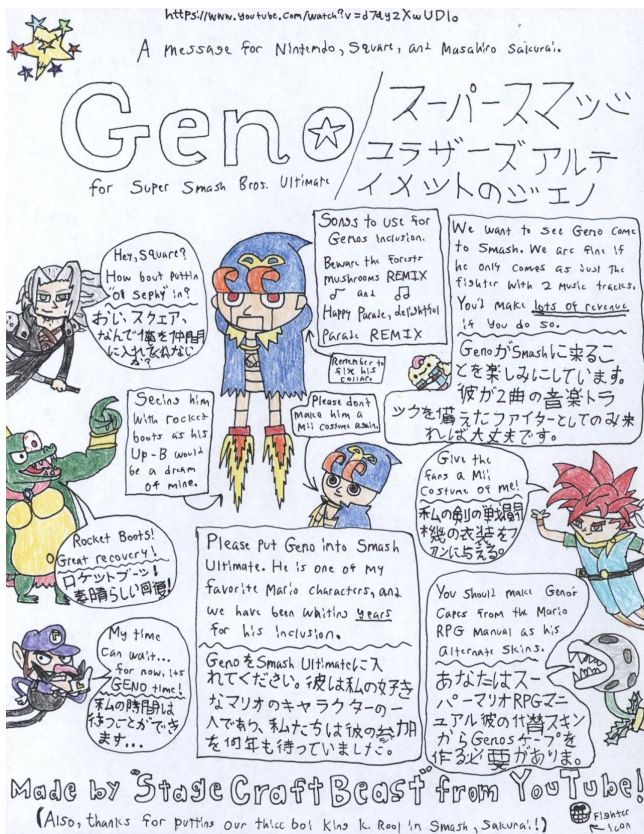

To Sakurai, Nintendo, Square Enix, all involved parties,

WE NEED GENO IN SMASH. This is not to say that Ultimate is not already an incredible game. This is not to say that the current roster is inadequate in any way. This is not to say that the game would be bad if Geno never made it in.

But it would FEEL incomplete. With Ultimate, Sakurai and his team have crafted the ultimate fan-pleaser. Every character that has ever been in the series coming back, plus Never-Evers like Ridley and Banjo-Kazooie? Fans have already been spoiled. But this isn't strictly about fan demand. This is also about closure.

If Ultimate ends up being the swansong for Smash, or the end of the road for many beloved characters' inclusion in the franchise, it would feel like a missed opportunity if Geno were to be added in the NEXT Smash game, or never at all. Ultimate gave us the tagline "Everyone Is Here", and that just doesn't feel quite true while Geno remains apart from everyone.

~Andrew Cotter

Artwork By:
StageCraftBeast

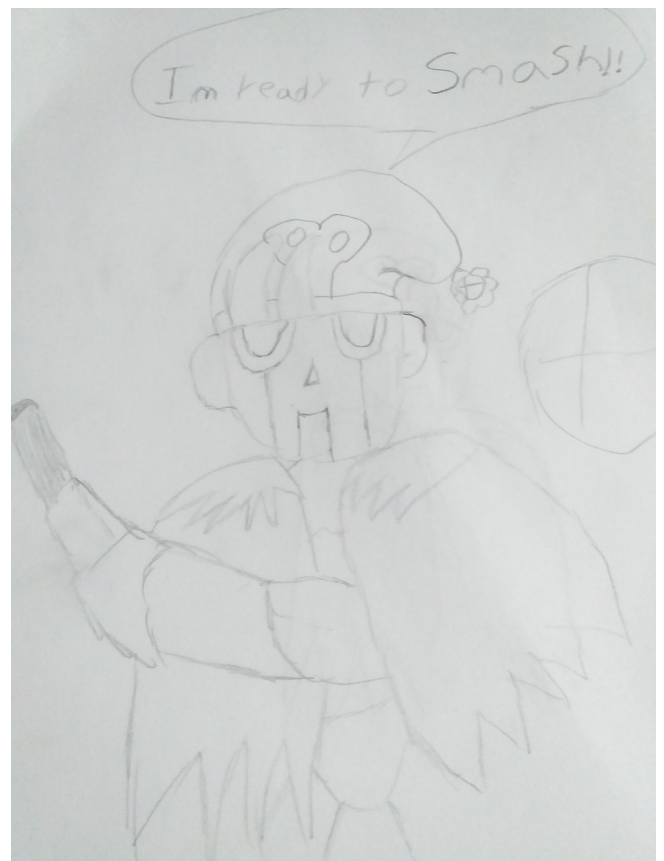

Artwork By:
Attonic Graphot

Artwork By:
NotSuperGeno

Dear Nintendo,

Geno and Super Mario RPG changed my life forever, it has so much meaning for me that I even tattooed him and Mallow in my skin forever. Please bring them back and please add Geno to Smash Bros Ultimate, it would really be a dream come true!

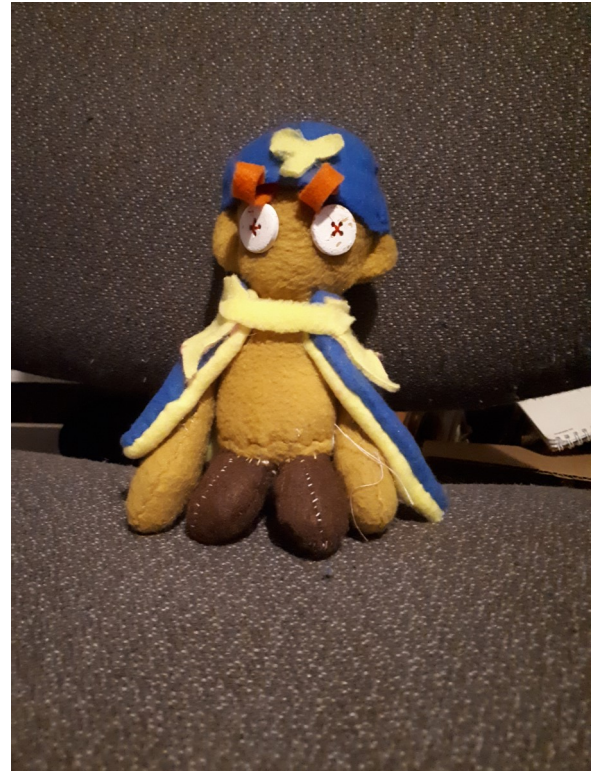

Thanks for creating these amazing characters that taught me that anything could be possible and that I could be whoever I wanted to be... and so I am.

~V́ctor Espinosa

Geno Doll By:
Mikeybutcher621

Pixel Art By:
Elmore the Magician

Artwork By: retroguy27

One Final Wish

I'm a Brazilian who plays video games since the days of Super Nintendo. As you can see, this photograph shows me in my 11th birthday with my brother plating Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars. This game connected with me and my brother so much that we played it even during my birthday!

This is how important this game is to us. Geno has always been my favorite character in this game. During Smash Bros. for Wii U, I bought his Mii Fighter Outfit, even though I didn't play as Mii Fighter, just to support Geno to be in smash as a playable character.

I'm sure I'm not the only one. It's not only in North America and Japan; there are a lot of fans in Brazil and in many other countries across the world who would love to play as Geno, to the point where they made Geno playable back in the days of Super Smash Bros. Brawl with his own move set.

Also, it was Geno who made me like the RPG genre. Out of all the long requests, like King K. Rool, Ridley, and Banjo & Kazooie, Geno is the only one missing. It's been almost 20 years since Melee, so please fulfill our dream and bring Geno back to life!

Best Regards,
Gustavo Vasconcelos

For Geno to join Super Smash Bros

-Shawn

-USA

To have Geno in Smash Bros

-JP

-Canada

That super Mario RPG will have a switch remake and that Geno will become a playable character in SSBU!

-Seth

-USA

Mallow in Smash.

-JTF

-USA

I would at the very least like to see Geno become a playable fighter. I'd even like Forest Maze in Smash! It doesn't even have to be Smash, even if they patched in his inclusion in Superstar Saga, I'd be ecstatic. I want him to be with Nintendo again, since Square Enix does practically nothing with him. My wish, in short, is for Geno specifically to be reincluded into the Mario universe.

-LeafyMeadow -USA

To be able to lead a life that my parents would be proud of, but for a SMRPG related wish: a new game or remake from the ground up would be amazing!

-Anon

-USA

I wish for Geno to be a playable character in Super Smash Bros and I want to see Geno, Mallow and other characters return to more Mario games and franchises as well as many new adventures that Mario will be going on.

-Zachary

-USA

I wish that the Super Mario RPG franchise received more attention nowadays. A port, a remaster, a sequel, I'd take anything. Even having Geno in Smash Ultimate would be amazing. Just some form of modern representation for this beloved franchise.

-eroomad

-USA

For Square-Enix to stop being so stupid with their copyright on SMRPG. Also for an official remix of the boss theme in smash please?

-Sammi L.

-USA

Can we PLEASE get a SMRPG remake? Maybe one that amps up the Final Fantasy allusions and has an art style similar to the Disgaea games? (2D characters on a 3d background)

-Toriii!

For Geno to appear in another Mario RPG game. I don't care if he's playable or just a cameo, I just want to see him again.

-LINGU1NE

-USA

For a sequel or remake of either Chrono Trigger or Super Mario RPG

-David C

-USA

A sequel to Mario RPG.

-Kyle Trenga

-USA

I would LOVE a Super Mario RPG sequel to come to Switch at some point before the end of its life cycle. PLEASE, Nintendo!

-Jonathan

-USA

For Geno to be playable as a character in Smash Bros

-Stefan Schouten

-Europe

To have Geno and Mallow in Super Smash Bros Ultimate!

-Trace

-USA

For a remake of SMRPG with a certain margin of modern grandeur!

-AndrewNebz

-USA

Geno has been one of my most wanted newcomers for Super Smash Bros for around a decade or so. It would be amazing to see him included in Super Smash Bros Ultimate DLC and/or future titles. Thanks!

-JHeggie

-USA

Super Mario RPG ♡!?

-Helen Dabney
-USA

Put Geno in Smash.

-Sammy
-USA

A true sequel to Super Mario RPG or just a remaster

-Milo
-USA

To have Geno brought back for literally anything.
I'm wishing for Smash, but just having him back would be ideal.

-Kalamari
-USA

Geno and Mallow is one the Mario Family where he belongs.

-Stardust
-USA

That Geno gets into Smash, boi

-Mush
-USA

Geno in smash with Mallow as an AT, and something new for the series! Also Golden Sun.

-Matthew (aka Kalm)
-USA

Remaster SMRPG and make a sequel!

-Shane
-USA

To see Geno appear once more.

-Pango
-Canada

I want to see Yoshi be a playable character.

-Shazbots
-USA

For the happiness of those I love (and for some, happiness includes SMRPG and Geno getting more recognition ;D).

-Reily
-USA

Geno playable in Smash Bros.

-Kyyyyyle
-USA

To see my childhood game back again.

-Oshawott64

-USA

Geno Or Mallow In Smash And Other Games

-El Pacifista(Rayer)

For a sequel to Super Mario RPG made by Nintendo and Square Enix that not only has returning SMRPG characters like Geno, but also has more FF elements, creatures, and cameos. Perhaps they end up in the world Culex came from, which was called Vanda in America, and have to fight against him and who he works for.

-Jay -USA

Bring him back, make him part of the Nintendo family along Mario. Or bring him to smash i would love to see him again.

-Harry

-USA

For a remake/remaster and or sequel to Super Mario RPG Legend of the Seven Stars and for Geno and Mallow to return.

-Justin Tyler Martinez

-USA

I want Geno to let his light shine and join his friends once again in the game Super Smash Brothers Ultimate

-I'm Salt

-USA

I WISH FOR GENO TO BE INCLUDED IN SMASH! I WISH FOR GENO TO BE INCLUDED IN SMASH!! I WISH FOR GENO TO BE INCLUDED IN SMASH!!!
...or Mallow...please? =(

-Edwin
-USA

For Nintendo to give more importance to Mallow and Geno as side characters at the very least. Or give Geno & Mallow their very own game series.

-Pinsy/Pinstle
-USA

Geno and Mallow to return, and Geno in Smash!!!

-Adam Klingenberg
-USA

I want Geno to be a playable character in Smash Ultimate!

-Starlight42
-USA

The game comes to switch and all platforms and maybe add a multiplayer feature.

-Tim
-USA

To have a remake of Super Mario RPG or a Super Mario RPG 2

-Ryan Teague
-USA

Afternoon sunlight trickles in through a window into a small and dark second floor room. A man sleeps on a pull out bed in the room as the screeching wheels of a school bus descend the rolling hills up to the house past farms and small communities. Footsteps are heard first faintly then more potently approaching the house. There is murmured speech from other rooms then footsteps come closer to the dark room. The doorknob turns and the door creaks open. Four eyes peer into the room. "Do you think he's awake?" asks a voice in a not-so-quiet whisper. "Well if he wasn't before, he sure is now," responds the second set of eyes. "Hey bud," responds the man who is no longer sleeping.

One of the sets of eyes, an excited child, runs into the room and onto the pull out bed to join his uncle. The other set of eyes, the child's grandmother, leaves the two in the room and tends to other tasks in the home. The uncle turns the tv on and puts on Looney Tunes. The uncle and nephew laugh and talk as they watch the show, what feels like their show because of how special these moments are. An uncle who works nights and still gets up to spend time with his nephew when he gets home from school even though that uncle could surely use sleep more he chooses to create an unforgettable moment for that child. Just two souls shining out in what felt like a vacuum of time and joy. That child is me. Those moments are magic.

In this same home, I discover video games. It starts with an old black and white Gameboy with just a Mario Land game to play. Eventually, I discover Pokémon on that same Gameboy and realize a love for gaming. My grandmother and grandfather get a SNES with a few games like Dr Mario and Tetris. A friend allows me to borrow their copy of Super Mario RPG: Legend of the Seven Stars that comes from them highly recommended. I would come home from school every day, rush through my homework, and then play as much SMRPG as I had time for before my mom would come pick my sister and I up and take us home. As I play through this game, I experience so many things I had never experienced before while playing a game. Humor (Mallow "finding out" he's not a tadpole, Bruce Lee getting casually name dropped...), incredible cast of characters with so many fun nuances for existing characters such as Bowser, amazing boss fights, new features and gameplay for old and recognizable characters, etc. This is when I discovered the character Geno. This is when magic came to video games for me.

How would one describe Geno? An omnipotent wish-granted star spirit inhabiting an awesome-looking wooden doll? A "gun mage"? A glass cannon RPG character? A character with a serious mission who is no stranger to sharing a laugh and playing some pranks on characters who he has some...differences of opinion with (ie Bowser). SMRPG had so many great characters but Geno always stuck out to me. Geno has such a great aesthetic and personality. He appeals to kids with his sleek design and how he interacts with Gaz. He appeals to artists with his awesome aesthetic. He appeals to the RPG enthusiasts with his quirky glass cannon play style that is totally unlike any other character. Simply put, Geno (and SMRPG) is unique.

Unfortunately, I no longer have a SNES, but do have SMRPG on my Wii and hope that it will come to the Switch in the online SNES service just announced. I still whip the game out to enjoy it every now and then because I just love it that much. The game has aged so well in comparison to other older games for me. When asked to rank my top 5 favorite video games of all time, SMRPG always makes it onto that list. The game was that impactful for me. Square and Nintendo created something that, for me (and I've found actually a surprisingly high amount of others), is timeless. Even though SMRPG has remained untouched for 20 years by either company for reasons I don't fully understand but do respect, I love and support this game.

Some time passes and the N64 comes into my life and along with it, another game unlike any other: Super Smash Bros. Seeing characters from different games come together to brawl in a "fighting" game unlike any other was a sight to see. More time passes and Melee comes out on the GameCube and really shakes things up with a larger roster, better graphics, and faster mechanics. Though I was not yet engaged in an internet community when it came to gaming, this is when Smash Bros speculation began for me. I started imagining what kind of characters I'd love to see in Smash. Rayman, Crash, Ridley, K. Rool, etc. but at the top of that list since has always been one character by far and that's Geno.

I guess that's what this letter is all about. Two games that changed everything for me and my desire to see them merged. By no means is this an expectation that I have, merely a desire that I wish to express knowing full well this attempt could amount to nothing and I would be ok with that because I realize my gaming experience is just a small piece of the wider puzzle that is the market that Smash (and Nintendo and Square) are trying to appeal to.

Thank you for all the memories. Here is to hoping one final wish is granted.

Sincerely,

A Long Time Fan

(2/2)

More Than You Care To Know About Me

Hello Nintendo, Square, Smash team, and whoever this letter is reaching! My name is Matthew Reimer. I am a 28 year old DSP working for two different companies with people who have disabilities. I am a huge Nintendo fan, but have some other systems as well thanks to my frugality and careful spending. I love a variety of games and wish to get into more series as my budget allows (like Dragon Quest and Kingdom Hearts). I am very appreciative of the hard work many gaming companies put into their products. Square always impresses me with their games. Smash Ultimate truly feels like an ultimate game with the amount of content it has. Nintendo likes to do some very unconventional things but that attitude has certainly paid off with the success of the Switch. I am saving up for an engagement ring for my girlfriend so that I can propose to her on our six year anniversary. I have many ambitions and goals and hobbies that I am pursuing. One of my current favorite hobbies is Smash Bros speculation (on SmashBoards) and creating move sets for characters that I would like to see in Smash. So far I've made move sets for Frisk, Geno, Crash, Rayman, and started one for Spyro. Geno's move set was the easiest move set to figure out because he's the character I've been imagining since I first started thinking about who I'd like to see in Smash. I'll include the move set later in this letter just so you can see how hard I tried even though I'm not a competitive Smash player and don't fully understand how to balance things.

I stumbled across SmashBoards within this year actually. I initially just used it to see custom stages people were making. Then I lurked to see what kind of speculation was going on. I found a Geno support thread and was inspired to start posting and interacting with that group. It was interesting to see people with the same mindset as me and people with very different gaming backgrounds and opinions all agreeing on one thing. I found that a lot of people in the group were very respectful and thoughtful. I think championing for our character and knowing how niche and unlikely the character was for so many years made us more willing to accept other characters in Smash, but still united us. I'm surprised but also not surprised by how many people are pulling for Geno to be in Smash. Not only that, but in spite of all the odds, people have hope. Hope that he could make. Hope in the idea of another SMRPG, a remaster, Geno and Mallow being in spinoff Mario games like Mario Kart, etc. It's truly incredible.

I know it's a lot to ask for a side character from a game that's been accumulating dust for two decades to get to star in a current game that is focusing heavily on crossovers and celebrating gaming's history. It's just that Geno is a huge part of many peoples' gaming histories from around the world. His inclusion would give a lot of people a lot to celebrate. Smash is a love letter from Sakurai and team to fans. And this is intended to be a love letter from me back to companies involved with games that I love. Geno, SMRPG, Smash all certainly deserve the love. Even if Geno doesn't get in Smash, even if SMRPG never gets revived, even if no more characters I'm interested in make it into Smash there is already so much there to be grateful for (not to mention more coming for Smash)!

I never thought that anything like this would be possible. The Geno support thread, along with Operation Starfall, has not only created a space for people to show their support for Geno, but also actively pursue showing that support. All it took was one person on the thread to suggest that we start a letter-writing campaign for people to actually gather together and make it a reality. That's why this letter is being sent. Because people believe that this cause is worth taking their time to pursue. Hope is a powerful thing indeed. I don't know how likely it is that Geno will actually make it into Smash or SMRPG be reborn, but it can't hurt to try and it can't hurt to show that there is support.

Thank you again for all that each of you do for fans! I hope this letter has found its way to you all without issue. Thank you for taking the time to read it.

~Matthew Reimer

Now to the reason for this message. It is no hidden secret, like Grate Guy's Casino, that Geno is one of the most wanted characters in Smash Bros. That can be one reason to let him in but allow me to add a few more reasons if I may. Super Mario RPG, like I mentioned above, was the introduction to role-playing games for me. It was the first Mario game that was made in the RPG genre. From this very game spawned two new games series: Paper Mario and The Mario and Luigi Series. Heck Paper Mario WAS titled Super Mario RPG 2 at one point. With how successful Super Mario RPG was these two series wouldn't of been able to take off like they did. Heck in the first, and original, Mario and Luigi game Superstar Saga due to his popularity Geno makes a cameo in a mini-game you play. Both series has five games with the Mario and Luigi series remastering 2 (Superstar Saga and Bowser's Inside Story). Let me move onto the next reason. The great thing about Super Smash Bros, and Ultimate especially, we can see so many different video game worlds mashed together into one. It also shows different video game companies coming together to make something great for the gamers of the world. Seeing Banjo, King K. Rool, Snake, Mega Man, and Joker in Smash has made several people days and a lot of gamers' wishes come true. It is truly beautiful and Super Mario RPG is just a PERFECT example of that. Square Enix, or Squaresoft at that time, worked with Nintendo to create that game. It was one their first projects they worked together (a dating sim being the only game before it). With Smash Bros being a great example of what greatness can happen when companies come together to create something great, what better way to show it by bringing a character from a great game created by the 1st collaboration of Nintendo and Square Enix?

road

Sincerely,

~A true diehard Geno fan

(2/2)

I can't thank the people working in Square Enix enough for making a game like Super Mario RPG. The game has not only made plenty of memories for me in the past, but it helped to revolutionize JRPGs as we know them. It helped to give a system that was known for being not too immersive for new audiences and very time consuming, and gave a new, exciting spin with the rhythmic mechanics.

The art style and visual effects of Super Mario RPG even inspired me to work on my own animations and edited videos due to their unique style. Considering how much Super Mario RPG has inspired many people, including me, having representation in future Mario titles would do the games an honor for what they've done to inspire millions.

Sincerely,
~Burgorton

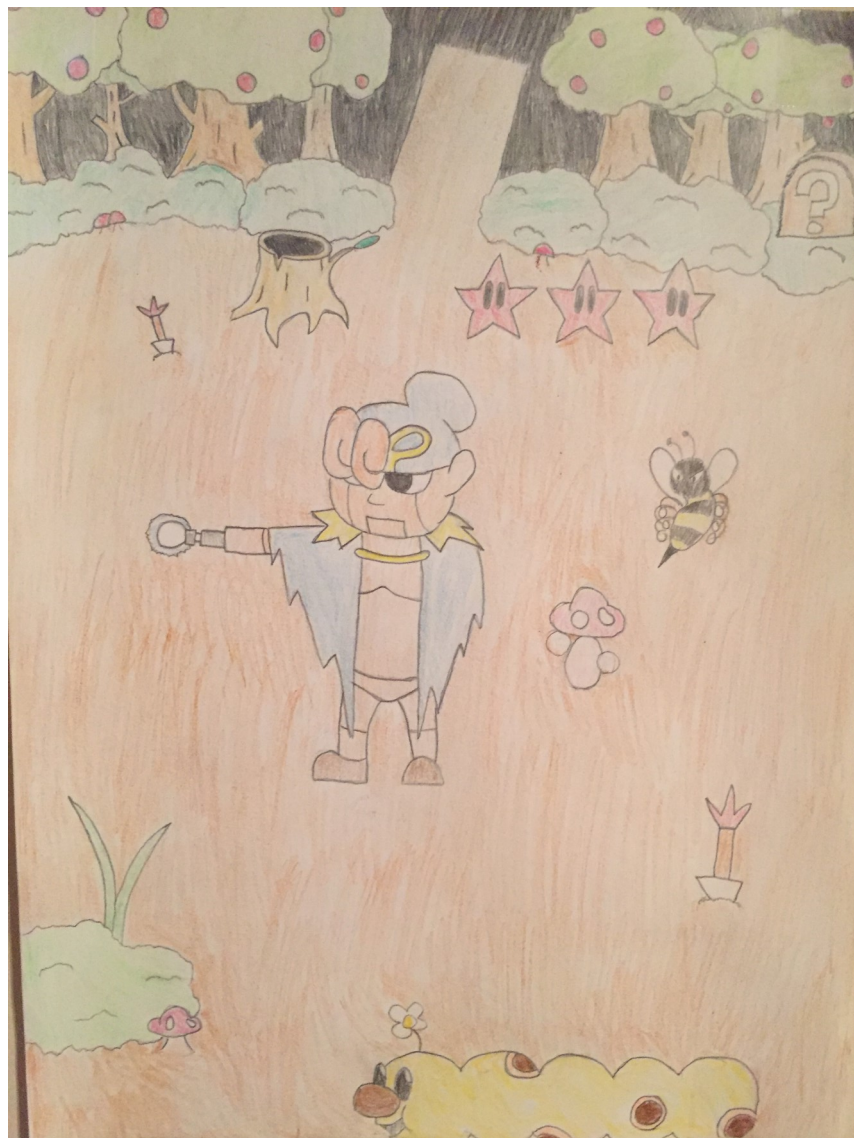

Dear Nintendo,

I worked hard on this drawing of Geno in the forest maze, and I would love to see him playable in Super Smash Brothers Ultimate soon! Geno is my most wanted character for Smash Ultimate, and having him be playable in smash is pretty much the only thing I want.

~Hayden Hammonds

A little letter from a core fan. I have no idea what the most formal way would be to introduce myself to people who honestly complemented part of my childhood. So I will do my best. Greetings, high profile entrepreneurs in the video game company (Sora Limited, Nintendo, Masahiro Sakurai himself, Square Enix... The truth is that I don't have a clear idea of who this letter will reach, I'm sorry... I'm not even sure if it will reach them) my name is Victor Ford Rondón, I'm a 16-year-old Spanish-speaking teenager, not very privileged, who at some point in his childhood had contact with Nintendo systems, which is considerably good, since video games are an important part of my life; even today.

The truth is that I wouldn't want to sound generic or redundant with my story, but yes, Nintendo and almost all its franchises I can consider as part of me, something that could link with my way of seeing the world, and although I'm in that stage of growth I consider myself mature enough to be aware of what's around me ... Who knows? I might even be intelligent. My character is somewhat introverted and even lazy, but I'm always looking for new things to learn even if it doesn't seem like it. I don't know whether to call myself enthusiastic about it, but it doesn't matter.

If I had to name a game that defined my childhood, it would be Super Smash Bros. Since for my time I had access to the Wii Virtual Console and a Classic Controller (which curiously felt like a king in my hands), since my father used to download it, I was able to try this game, and what could I say? I just loved it, the game was simple but dynamic, but the most iconic thing for me would be the happy characters. Hell, trying Super Smash Bros helped me get out of the bubble I was in at the time. To be honest at first, I didn't know anyone but Mario and Pikachu. I tried Super Smash Bros Brawl one or two years after it came out, years later I tried Melee on the same Wii, I had to ask my neighbor Anthony to lend me his GameCube controller to try it out. And so it was over the years, I'd like to apologize if any adult reading this has more important things to do before reading this letter, which I wouldn't judge. Hey, in a couple of years I'll be in a similar place when I have to grow up.

Of course, Smash Bros wasn't necessarily the holy grail of games for me, but it was that important link between the casual and the heart-worked. I continue to support Super Smash Bros. Ultimate from where I can, and Sakurai-san always manages to make the new content so charismatic and enjoyable that I inadvertently ended up looking for a way to familiarize myself with the Dragon Quest saga; one I was afraid of as a kid. The content in the game is countless, and the adjective 'Ultimate' makes me see the game as a conclusion of my youth, and a step I must take to get on with my life. That being so, I really hope to see a certain character in Smash, and that's Geno.

Super Mario RPG was one of the first I played alongside Smash 64 and Kirby and the Crystal Shards, and I consider it to be the greatest representation of what Mario is and means. I kept keeping that cartoonish and enjoyable touch, and by then I saw Geno as one of those heroes more than a high deity, he was great and a figure to follow because of how brave and determined he was. Not that Mario was just a few words, but Geno's interaction always brought a smile to my face. Nowadays it's very easy to notice his absence beyond where he debuted, and it's a sad thing honestly. I know that Sakurai can do a wonderful job with the character and with as much respect as possible, I wouldn't mind if he doesn't get in anyway, or just stays in spirit. After all the work included in the game is already admirable. It could be a personal whim, who knows? Even though I know that there would be many people happy with his inclusion, hopelessness made it in these parts of the community to wait for Geno to be considered a taboo. There are many reasons for wanting him. Well, because it's fun to play, because the character is considerably genius... Personally, my motivation to love him doesn't come from any technical resurgence. I want him in the game because with Ultimate, a part of my youth ends, and I wish he was there for it. If you have taken the trouble to read my letter to this point, I thank you very much, I have joined this project in Operation Starfall more for the sake of being more personal with Geno's dilemma.

Sincerely,
~Victor Ford

Artwork By: Daniel Benvenuto

To have Geno Become a playable DLC fighter in Super Smash Brothers Ultimate.

-Hayden

-USA

I wish to see Geno as a playable character again

-Cabbage Cat

-USA

Mario RPG 2 on switch (with Luigi as a character this time)

-Seth

-USA

For Geno to return in Smash Bros!!

-Kooj

-Canada

Geno to come to Smash Brothers Ultimate and in the near future a reboot or sequel to Super Mario RPG: The Legend of the Seven Stars to come to the Switch!

-Krystedez

-USA

To bring Geno and Mallow back to the Mario series. The two main characters left out from the game that won my heart so many years ago.

-Mark

-USA

Super Mario RPG Remake/Geno for Smash

- Rares
- Europe

To see Geno in Smash Bros and maybe see some SMRPG elements/concepts be reused in future Mario games. This game was the best!

- Bored Guy at Home
- USA

That Geno makes it into Smash.. leading into a revival in the Nintendo Universe

- Travis (TBone06)
- Canada

Super Mario RPG HD and Geno for Smash

- HootsHugs101
- Australia

Get Geno in Smash

- Anthony Giuffrida
- USA

I want Geno to appear as the 5th DLC character in Super Smash Bros Ultimate

- Marcelo Brotero
- South America

For Geno to join the battle, making Smash Ultimate perfect!

-G_S

-Canada

Geno comes back in new Mario Games

-Denis Bianco

-Europe

I wish for Geno to be a playable character in Super Smash Bros!

-Julio Rodriguez

-USA

I want Geno to join Super Smash Bros. and for Super Mario RPG to either get a remake or a sequel.

-Mrcooldude10

-USA

Geno and a Forest Maze remix to be in Smash Ultimate

-Zach B

-USA

I want Super Mario RPG 2, or at least Geno and Mallow back.

-Danilo

-South America

To see more Mario RPG's with Mallow and Geno

-Neemat
-Europe

Super Mario RPG properties to return to the Super Mario series

-Anthony
-USA

I wish for Geno to be a playable character in Super Smash Bros, it's been long since he appeared in a game as a playable character.

-Felipe G.

I've never played this game or have any desire to, but my friend loves this game and he so desperately wants Geno to return. I want to see him happy so I'm making this wish to support your cause!

-G
-USA

To get a remake of Super Mario RPG and get Geno into Smash!

-Jalli
-USA

For some recognition from either party, whether it be Geno in Smash, SMRPG remaster, or a whole new game

-Technoman
-USA

Super Mario RPG 2 would be rad. Nintendo has clearly refined the RPG aspect of Mario quite a bit, so they should get ahold of the rights to Geno and Mallow and have another go at the ol' classic.

-John
-USA

Either have Geno or even Mallow appear in spinoffs or something, or let them be more prominent in a full on sequel.

-Visualgumball 87
-USA

Geno in Smash

-Me
-Canada

For the continuation of Geno and Mallow in future Nintendo games.

-Jacob
-Canada

I wish for Geno to be playable in Super Smash Bros Ultimate

-Luke Starkiller
-Europe

Well, Sakurai has confirmed that there will be more DLC Fighters after the first Fighters Pass is done! That means Geno still has a chance to be a Fighter! KEEP ON WISHING GUYS!! IT'S WORKING!!!

#GENOFORSMASH

-Eddy
-USA

Geno in Smash

-WebMang
-USA

I wish Geno will be a DLC fighter in Super Smash Bros Ultimate

-Thomas Wilcox
-USA

For Geno to become a playable fighter in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate and to appear in other games as well.

-John D.
-USA

For there to be a remake or sequel to Super Mario RPG: Legend of the 7 Stars . One of the greatest and timeless games of all time. This would be a game id happily pay $60 for.

-Someone who's extremely ready for a Mario RPG reboot
-USA

Geno and Boshi in Smash

-Green
-USA

Geno come to Smash

-Liam
-Australia

Geno to be in Smash and a Super Mario RPG remake!!

-Jeramy

-USA

For Geno to be playable in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate! I wanted him since I was 12 years old, please make my dream a reality!

-Matt Gilbert

-USA

Geno in smash or in a future Mario Game.

-Tom

-Europe

Geno to be in Smash Bros, cause c'mon, we've been asking for him since like 5 years ago.

-Luth Zack

-Mexico

For Geno to join Super Smash Bros. Ultimate!

-Steven

-USA

For a decade, I've wanted Geno in Smash for his awesome design, gorgeous specials, and unique move set potential. If he ever got in, I would lose my mind.

-P47

-USA

Hi, Nintendo & Square Enix,

As of writing this I'm 17 years old, so I obviously didn't grow up with Mario RPG. During the leadup to the Smash Ultimate's release though, I was seeing a lot of support for Geno to join the roster. At some point I started to take interest, and I wanted to see him become playable. It was Christmas of 2010 when I first played Mario RPG because of that love I developed for the character in a short time. Now, its one of my favorite games of all time, and I would love to see it represented in the form of Geno becoming a playable character as part of the upcoming DLC for Ultimate. His longtime fans have been waiting over a decade to finally see it happen, and it just shows how dedicated they are to this one-off character from a cult classic on the SNES. We have gotten bones thrown our way, like with the Mii Costume or a Spirit of him, but it simply doesn't capture the same feeling of seeing the character in the flesh (or wood). Geno has had a very sizeable fanbase over the years, and it is always growing, so even if he is mostly unknown to a lot of casual players, he still has a lot of appeal. My kid brother loves him based on design alone.

It would make all of us happy to see him appear again, so please, if you could make this happen, that would be amazing and we would be the happiest.

Sincerely,

~A fan of Geno and SMRPG

Hello,

Super Mario RPG is one of the best games I've ever played. There is no true representative of the Mario RPG genre. Geno would be a great character because his moves would translate over very well, like Geno Beam being a charge neutral B and Geno Flash being the final smash. You've truly gone all out with this Smash Bros, and Geno would be an excellent final capstone to long fan requests.

Thanks,

~Andrew Schofield

Dear Representative of Nintendo, or whomever it may Concern,

Howdy! My name's Gideon. Ever since I was kid I've always been a huge fan of the Mario franchise, with one of my Favorite games in the series being Super Mario RPG: Legend of The Seven Stars. It's an absolutely wonderful game with a great story, an incredibly memorable soundtrack & tons of fantastic characters, but one character that has always stood out to me among everyone else is the Star Spirit turned Living Doll; Geno. Despite, technically, only appearing in one game, Geno has always been one of my favorite Mario characters ever since I first encountered him. He's a really unique & interesting character, a bit of a tough nut to crack but once you get under his shell he's got a good sense of humor and cool attitude that helps to get himself & his companions through even the most dire of circumstances. Out of all of Mario's numerous adventures, his Adventure with Geno back in 96' is one of the most memorable for me. For years, I've been wishing for Geno to make another appearance in a new Mario game, or really any game for that matter! But outside of one short cameo in the Game Boy Advanced version of Mario & Luigi Superstar Saga, he hasn't made any appearances since his Debut.

Until the day his Smash4 Mii Costume was revealed. I don't think I've ever been more excited for an alternate Costume in a game than when that costume was revealed! Things were looking good for Geno, and his inclusion as an unlockable Spirit in Ultimate was even more exciting. Sure you couldn't play as Geno, but at least he could be there in "Spirit". But you see, that's just the thing, what if Geno wasn't just a Spirit, what if you actually COULD play as him, what if he was a character with his own moves and slot on the roster? Not just a costume for the Mii Gunner again, but his own fully fledged individual character. I think that by incorporating his moves and Mechanics from Super Mario RPG into a Smash Move Set could result in a really fun and interesting character to play as. I've wanted to see Geno in Smash for years now, and with every passing iteration he's been one of my tops picks for series newcomers. And now, with the inclusion of additional DLC characters after the Fighter's Pass, Geno finally has his chance. So please, to whomever is reading this, if you have the chance and if it isn't to much of a hassle, please put in a good word about Geno for me. I'd really appreciate it.

Sincerely, you long time fan,

Gideon. S . Voigtlander

To Mr. Sakurai or whom this may concern,

My love for Nintendo has been ingrained in me since the young age of three. For almost thirty years of my life Nintendo has brought joy into my life and no franchise has done that more than the Super Mario Bros Series. From making it to the end of level 8-4 to collecting every power moon in Odyssey. But there is ONE game in particular that still stands out today above the original, above Super Mario 64, above Odyssey. That is Super Mario RPG Legend of the Seven Stars. As a kid my spectrum of games wasn't wide but I loved playing video games. I played many variety of games: sports games, racing games etc. I've played Bubsy, Aero the Acrobat and I did delve into other game franchises (of course played Nintendo games as well: Kirby, Legend of Zelda, etc). But I never knew or played a role playing game before. Heck when I saw Super Mario RPG I didn't even know what the RPG stood for in the title. I saw Mario and had to play it. Little did I know when playing that game I was going to come upon my favorite game of all time.

Being a kid I remember being confused when starting the game. Fighting Bowser already? Than silly, naive, young and not the most intelligent kid having the biggest brain lapse not understanding when Princess Toadstool was telling me to attack the chain meant attacking the chain on the chandelier. But once getting past the beginning my young mind was blown away. The music was phenomenal. It was catchy and I still remember every track to this day. The battle system once I got a hang of was fun and loved it. As a kid BOWSER WAS ON MY TEAM was groundbreaking for me. Having the Princess fight alongside me as well but the new characters introduced to you to play along were the best. Mallow this cloud looking dude thinking he's a tadpole. He can CONTROL the weather!. Of course you find out he's not actually a tadpole but through your adventure find out he's royalty let alone a PRINCE. This little puffball that has an emotional side is going to be a King someday. However for me the blue cloaked doll caught my attention the most. A star spirit controlling a doll. He just goes by the doll's name Geno and little did I know would be my favorite character for this game and arguably of all time. His casual nod after winning each battle. The mystery of who he was and where he came from (I know he came from high above from the star road etc but it was all new). His special moves TURNING HIMSELF INTO A CANNON AND SHOOTING A BLAST THAT DESTROYS ALL THE ENEMIES ON THE SCREEN, being able to buff Bowser's and Mario's attack to crazy numbers and throwing a razor if you time right does MAX damage. He can LAUNCH his fists at enemies, shoot projectiles from his fingertips, his arms are cannons that eventually SHOOT OUT STARS. deep breath I could go on and on but this would last forever. Super Mario RPG has to be one of if not my favorite game of all time. I've played through it so many times I can't tell you how many. But one thing that has been consistent. Geno is always in the party.

Dear Nintendo,

It's been years since Super Smash Bros Brawl was released, and even to this day I have faith that you add Geno to the game as a playable character and see him finally reunited with his teammates Mario, Peach and Bowser .

Sincerely for the year in which I was born 2001 I was not lucky enough to play the great game that was made thanks to the effort of both you and Square Enix as a team that was Super Mario RPG The Legend Of The Seven Stars. But in spite of everything, I always liked both Geno's design and character, as well as his combat skills. I was sure that he would fit very well as a fighter in Smash. For example the ability to transform into a cannon and shoot at his enemies, being able to raise the attack and defense of their allies in the middle of the fight, to be able to increase the power of their attacks by holding a certain button or also the idea of raining colored lights on their enemies causing them a lot of damage. I always found myself a move set great and curious. I feel it would add Smash variety and make many fans happy just like me.

I thank you from the heart for your time to read my letter and how much love and effort you put into each of your games to satisfy your fans; you really are the best. Excuse my English, I am not so good since I am from Argentina. I wish you have an excellent day and have a great time! <3

~Dragonfanglegendary

To whom it may concern at Nintendo, Square Enix, and of course Mr. Sakurai and his team,

Hello! My name is Justin, and I'd like to take a moment of your time to share my support for Geno as a DLC character for Super Smash Bros Ultimate.

I'm sure you are familiar with the fan demand for this character, and how beloved he is by his fans. However, I'd like to share with you personally why he is my most wanted newcomer to the Super Smash Bros franchise.

As a child, one of the first game consoles I can ever remember playing was the SNES. The console predated me by a few years, however I was lucky enough to have an older brother who owned one. One of the games we owned, was of course, Super Mario RPG: Legend Of The Seven Stars.

It was entirely different than any other Mario game at the time, with a more complex story and fleshed out characters. In fact, the personality that Bowser has maintained throughout the following RPG and spin-off games started in this! One of these characters was Geno, of course.

Geno was an integral part of not only the party of characters you obtain throughout the game, but the story as a whole! He is your guide in explaining what is going on throughout the story. More so, he really is the face of Super Mario RPG. I believe many people picture Geno when they think of the game. On top of this, he permeates a cool aura, and the premise of a star-possessed doll was and still is an entirely unique concept.

I believe Geno has immense move set potential, and that it could be unique when compared to other characters in the roster. I also believe Geno would fit right in, especially when standing side by side with the party members he fought alongside so many years ago.

He is a character that has been requested as far back as Super Smash Bros Melee, and requests from both Super Mario RPG and Super Smash Bros fans alike have not faded; even after all of the years. With so many long-requested characters being added to the roster; from Ridley, all the way to Banjo & Kazooie most recently; I believe Geno is a character that would well deserve a spot as a Super Smash Bros Ultimate DLC character. It would truly make many fan's dreams come true.

Thank you so much for your time, and thank you for your hard work and dedication throughout the years! Super Smash Bros Ultimate is something truly special, and the continued support of the game is just amazing. You've achieved something that will be remembered forever. Thank you!

~JHeggie

Hello hire ups of Nintendo/Square Enix,

I come to you today to let you know how important it is to me, as a fan of yours and Nintendo's, to have Geno from Super Mario RPG as DLC in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate. For years now, fans from all around the world have wanted this character in smash, including the creator, Masahiro Sakurai, who stated in an interview that Geno would be "perfect for smash". He has topped years-worth of fan polls including the official fighter ballot by Nintendo, and fans have been begging for this character since the days of Smash Bros. Melee in 2001. As part of the ultimate smash game, Geno would fit in perfectly as a fan requested character similar to the likes of Ridley from the Metroid Series, and King K. Rool from the Donkey Kong series. Many have already bought the fighters pass, and plan to get all the DLC no matter the character, and as a fan favorite for years, Geno would sell tremendously, and all you would have to do is give the rights for Super Mario RPG over to Nintendo. There isn't a much simpler way to put it, other than its a smart business decision, and though it wouldn't influence sales of a current game, you would make tons of money in the process. Assets from Super Mario RPG haven't been used by you for years, so it wouldn't make any sense holding it over Nintendo's head. All I wish is that you consider Geno as DLC for the Smash Bros. Ultimate franchise, as Geno would be perfect with a pre-made move set already available and you would make tons of money in the process by satisfying fans. Thank you for your time.

~Hudson F. Ulrich

Hi,

So, I'm from Chile, and me and my brother grew up with Nintendo. I'm 34 and he's 32, and he named his son Luigi (ha-ha). I was supposed to name mine Mario, but we met some nasty people named Mario over our lives so I didn't do it. Anyway, we love Super Mario RPG and I played it every time we rented it from a videogame rental store. I love Geno as the concept of a character; he's the wish of a kid made real! It's so unique as a character in Nintendo to be so whimsical, my brother and I used to play a lot with toys as kids, so Geno was something like that but in a Nintendo game.

I think Geno would be awesome in smash: it's a perfect fit! Please add him to smash? It would be the wish from us to you, our star Nintendo!

~Daniel Benvenuto

Okay, where do I even begin? I'll have to begin somewhere, so... Geno. I love this little guy. I may not have been one of the original players of SMRPG, and I am very young compared to many other Geno supporters, but my love for the star boy isn't any less than theirs. I first played the game somewhere in the 2000s, well after it first came out, and I remember being absolutely captivated and awed by the world and characters. Particularly one little star warrior. None other than Geno has kept his legacy amongst fans intact.

Geno getting in Smash Ultimate would truly be a magical thing for me and the other guys who have waited for his return in some capacity. He may have made only 1 non-cameo appearance in his entire life so far, and still has the huge following he has today. Why is this? Maybe it's because he's literally a wooden doll cosmic warrior with a frickin' arm cannon for an arm. Maybe it's because of the aura of mystery of him. Maybe it's because Super Mario RPG was a game that created a lot of the things that are commonplace in Mario games nowadays (like character personality traits, characters, settings, etc) and is straight up something that Paper Mario and probably even the Mario & Luigi RPG franchises wouldn't exist. Maybe it's because the characters and setting have so much untapped potential that may very well fade away into the sunset. Or maybe it's just because he can literally throw rotating energy discs that deal 9999 damage. Either way, there is an undeniable charm to his character, to SMRPG in general that keeps it's fandom and interest alive even so long after it reasonably should have died out without any new content in over 20 years.

What's with this guy, why should he be in Smash Bros? As touched on above, Geno still has thousands of fans today. And a large part of that is in the fandom. He consistently scores in the top 5 or even outright wins Smash request fan polls. He's been a huge request since Brawl. He has so much fanart, so much fan content dedicated to him. He's a "never-ever" underdog pick in a game where most of his fellow hugely popular for decades plus requests have been granted the red carpet treatment, namely Ridley, King K. Rool and Banjo Kazooie. Making the "never-ers" an even 4/4 would fully cement this game's status as an Ultimate/Special crowd-pleaser. (also helps Geno is my personal favorite of all of them). The support for this guy is real, and has never been stronger. Game developers (Chihiro Fujioka, Yoshihiko Maekawa, Yoko Shimomura, even Sakurai himself) have spoken about their love for Geno. Even Wendy's (the restaurant) and Walmart of Canada have directly acknowledged him recently. People love the star warrior. Geno is in a perpetual state of so close, yet so far. It would be awesome if just once, he could catch the lucky break he's been after for so long and get immortalized in Smash. Once you get in, you're set in gaming. This effect exists with many other characters; the aforementioned Ridley, K. Rool, Banjo, and even some of the older Smash cast (Ness, Captain Falcon, Ice Climbers, etc) who may have faded away into the sunset, but thanks to Smash Bros, they have loving and caring fans and have essentially been immortalized in the world of gaming.

He also doesn't really have much else of a future right now, unless there's something special in the works (which I doubt, but I'd LOVE to be wrong). He is currently stuck in a rut, and has been virtually screwed over by being a Super Mario Bros character owned by Square Enix. He is the weird stepchild that Nintendo only occasionally gets to visit. Getting him in Smash will signify that yes, you are listening.

But what really cement's Geno's status is what he represents. He's an enigma of a character. Apart from being a Star Warrior, he is far from a stoic character, and is in fact probably one of the more interesting characters in the relatively static Mario franchise. While he is a hero type and is bound to his duty, he is also eager to fight, is a charming and amicable type who isn't afraid to joke around and lighten the mood (easily the most cheerful and optimistic of the team), is fine with showing off and making himself look like a badass and has the sass to just straight up yell "YO SMITHY!" at the end of the game.

His support and devotion reflect something greater. Without any future for the time being, his fans have taken it upon themselves to fill in the blanks themselves. Head canon upon nerdy head canon. Fan artwork upon fan artwork. Music remix upon music remix. Heck, pretty much any type of fan project you can think of, it's been done for SMRPG. And some of them go in deep. They have added new life to pretty much everything you can find in the game. They've extracted pretty much every little thing and gave them some wacky interpretations to flesh them out further. Some of their fan works rank amongst the best, most passionate, most loving I've ever seen for any community. This is a community built purely on the fans and their raw, unbridled love for a great game with a seemingly doomed future. Kind of niche in the end? Sure, but that makes him and SMRPG even more special. It's fans are some of the most loving, most dedicated, and passionate out of any. They have basically taken a world that is unlikely to get anything new in the foreseeable future and have made it into something their own, more real. It's sort of a "Velveteen Rabbit" effect, if you will. And why wouldn't they? It's a one of a kind journey. It offers a unique setting and evokes a unique feel and style that no other Mario RPG emulates (speaking as a fan of Mario's other RPG series too). Video Games in general are so much more than code to us. They may as well be another reality altogether. It is amazing how much you can extract from a screen world, and SMRPG's fans are emblematic of this central idea. (Some Great fan works include Rawest Forest Reanimated, LoopyyyLupe's Super Mario RPG artbook, and some top tier music remixes such as this "Beware the Forest Mushrooms" remix, and this metal mashup of almost all of Super Mario RPG's music. Not even scraping the tip of the iceberg or anything, just some things that came up off the top of my head)

In short, what separates Geno from most is just what his game represents to me and so many of his other fans. Well, that and his 9999 damage energy beams. He and his game may fade away into the recesses of history, it may vanish into the sunset, may blink out completely, but as long as word of mouth continues being spread, as long as people continue to take it upon themselves to expand the world they love so much. Geno is our velveteen puppet, and we couldn't be prouder to stand by him.

~John Mac

I don't know... Now that I'm thinking about it... how about... WE HAVE GENO FOR SMASH ULTIMATE! Please and thank you.

-Guillermo
-South America

To have Geno in SSBU

-@Memelord2019
-USA

Mischief Makers on the Nintendo Switch

-InkyNeko
-USA

I wish that Geno would be in Super Smash Bros.

-Jordan Dunmire
-USA

Having Geno as a playable character in Super Smash Brothers.

-Omry Maiselef
-Israel

I wish for Geno to be a playable character in Super Smash Bros! He has been the only character I have wanted to play. I have been waiting since Super Smash Bros. Brawl! It would mean so much to me to see him join the roster. A proper Super Mario RPG sequel would be awesome too so long as Geno and Mallow are in it.

-Majeed Saturn

For Geno to be added in Smash because he hasn't been around for a while :(

-MonoBurglar
-USA

I wish for Geno to become a playable character in Super Smash Bros. and for Super Mario RPG to become a big name game once again.

-Green
-USA

Geno gets in Smash

-Aidan
-USA

Geno being playable in Super Smash Bros. Ultimate, SMRPG remake or sequel, Geno and Mallow appearances in Paper Mario & Mario and Luigi RPGs, and Geno and Mallow playable in sports titles.

-Neon05
-USA

Geno joins Smash Bros as full fledged DLC with Mallow as a hazard stage and a Boshi or a Smithy Mii Costume.

-Sean

For Geno to return to the mainstream. He is a great character with so much potential for future games. He was made for the Mario universe If all else fails, I'd absolutely love to see a remake of the game to introduce him to newer fans just for him to be known again!

-mellowforests
-Europe

My wish is that Geno becomes a playable character in Super Smash Ultimate as a playable character.

-Heoj
-Europe

That Geno become playable in Smash. He's cool and his fans have been super nice and patient. They're an awesome, dedicated group and deserve their wish granted.

-Chief Swoosh
-USA

I want Geno in Super Smash Bros!

-Serenade
-USA

For Geno to be in Smash. Smash is about playing your favorites and Genos been long overdue.

-Casey Scott
-Canada

I want to see Geno, Mallow and other characters return to more Mario games and franchises including Mario Kart, Mario Tennis as well as many new adventures that Mario will be going on!

-MangoHero
-USA

Geno for Smash!

-Bagel Man
-USA

GENO FOR SMASH BROS!!!!

-Forrest Rorie
-USA

I want Geno to be a playable fighter in Super Smash Brothers Ultimate.

-RedShroud
-USA

I wish that Geno & Mallow are able to reprise their roles and enjoy the spotlight.

-McKenzie Banks
-USA

To play as Geno in Smash Ultimate!

-Tkiito
-Europe

I hope he gets in Smash Ultimate soon! I first played Super Mario RPG back on the Virtual Console on the Wii... He has been my most requested character for smash for a while!

-Elmore the Magician
-USA

I would love to see him in smash; he's the only one that I want... I hope for him! #OperationStarfall

-NotSuperGeno
-USA

That someday, the Super Mario RPG characters appears in more games (like Mario Kart, Mario Party and hey, maybe a main game?)

-By28
-Canada

For Geno to finally become a playable character in Super Smash Bros.

-ZMD Studios
-USA

My wish is for Super Mario RPG Legend of the Seven Stars to get an HD remake, hopefully using the same style as the pre-rendered 3D graphics. (Oh, and Geno in smash. Please, Nintendo!)

-A Fan
-USA

Please put Geno in Smash! He deserves it!

-Trogdorbad
-USA

For Geno to appear as a Fighter in Super Smash Bros Ultimate.

-Lord Woomy
-USA

I wish for Geno to be in Super Smash Bros Ultimate as a playable fighter and for Super Mario RPG to be brought onto the Nintendo Switch Online Service so more people can witness how special of a game it is. It would mean so much to me to see these guys return and have their legacy immortalized forever.

-Terry Mitchell
-USA

